Schwenk Digs Into Facts of Water Squabble

Warns On Polilical Motives

Tax Jumps Tower Over Water Hikes

Charges of unjust criticism with "selfish political motives" against the water board were made in a statement today by John J. Schwenk, former alderman-at-large and water board president.

Former transference of water department surpluses amounting to $95,000 to the public works department are noted by Schwenk, who also said the recent request for revenue anticipation notes were made by the Alfred D. Ronder Co., certified public accountants.

Compares Raises

Schwenk also emphasized that in more than 30 years the water board boosted rates only twice for a total increase of 66 per cent, "while in the short period of 10 years, we are paying approximately 200 per cent more in city taxes than we did in 1949."

Members of the water board and Common Council are due to meet Wednesday night for discussion of the board's program.

The board had proposed a public hearing, and Aldreman-at-large Harold L. Kaye, after sounding out opinion among aldermen, today said that the meeting with water board membesr will be held as originally proposed at 7:30 p. m., and, if, after that, the board wishes to hold a public hearing, it may do so.

Text of Statement

Schwenk's statement:

In the past several weeks, the water board has been under severe criticism by the mayor and some members of the Common Council. This criticism results from action of the water board in its request for authority to issue revenue anticipation notes, install water meters in public buildings and increase its water rates.

Self government cannot endure without factual information enabling the people to understand what is true and what is false and what's just political propaganda injected into a controversy as a smoke screen to cover up other shortcomings.

Calls for Honest Exam

Let us honestly examine the situation and give the people an opportunity to determine what is right and what is wrong.

These are the facts:

(1) The request of the water board to issue revenue anticipation notes was made upon the recommendation of the Alfred D. Ronder Co., certified public accountants. It was made in order for the board to operate until such time as increased revenue was forthcoming from the water rate increase, an increase made necessary because of higher taxes and other operating costs.

(2) Prior to 1932, the water board supplied water to public buildings free of charge. The State Department of Audit and Control, in its report, stated that the practice was illegal and that the water department must charge all consumers including city departments for water service. Since then all public buildings have been charged for the use of water. Since all users of water are being metered, the main purpose of which is to conserve water, there can be no sound argument against instal-

Levitt May Be Direct With Tax Cut Appeal

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt may make an unusual, direct appeal to the Legislature this week to cut back the sweeping income tax increase that Gov. Rockefeller proposes.

A source close to the Democratic comptroller said Levitt was considering a personal appearance at the annual budget hearing Wednesday to lead his party's attack on the Rockefeller plan.

The hearing is expected to be a stormy one. The Legislature's fiscal committees reported requests for permission to speak far outstripped those of recent years.

Fresh Attack Sunday

Levitt fired a fresh salvo at Rockefeller Sunday night, offering what he said was statistical proof that the Republican governor did not need a 23 per cent income tax boost to balance his record $2,041,000,000 budget.

The comptroller charged that Rockefeller's plan would produce 150 million dollars in extra revenues, as Rockefeller estimated, but at least 230 million—and probably 257 million.

He said a detailed study by fiscal experts in his office showed that a cut in personal exemptions —Rockefeller's way of raising the tax for most persons—was "completely unnecessary."

In support of his argument, he produced charts and lengthy memorandums showing how this conclusion was reached.

Thinks Argument Strong

Levitt was said to feel that he had a strong argument against the Rockefeller plan and that, as the only major Democratic officeholder in Albany, he ought to present it to the committees himself.

Former Gov. Averell Harriman, a Democrat, jumped into the attack on Rockefeller Saturday night when he said the new governor's budget was "fundamentally wrong" and that Rockefeller's tax plan would impose "an unfair burden on lower income families."

Harriman made the statement at Idlewild Airport in New York City before boarding a plane for India, where he will spend a month.

Zaretzki Critical

Joseph Zaretzki, the Senate's minority leader, also was critical of Rockefeller. Zaretzki said Sunday the state can raise enough new tax income to balance its budget without lower exemptions.

The upper Manhattan Democrat said the plan to lower personal exemptions "puts a premium on spinsterhood and bachelorhood."

"We want to get the single fellow married," Zaretzki said.

Rockefeller has asked the Republican-controlled Legislature to make three major changes in the tax law that he says will yield an extra 150 million dollars needed to help balance the budget.

Levitt and fellow Democrats have accepted two of these—a shift to payroll withholding April

Five Deaths Occur From Fires During Weekend in State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ALBANY N. Y (AP) — The deaths of two little sisters in a burning shack in Brookhaven Sunday night sent the state's death toll in fires up to five for the weekend.

Three persons died in traffic accidents

Miscellaneous mishaps claimed four victims, including two Navy reservists who were injured fatally in the crash of a Navy plane in a Brooklyn marsh Saturday.

Accidents Claim 12

The total number of accidental deaths between 6 p m. Friday and midnight Sunday was 12.

Shirley Ann Chisholm, 3, and Jo Ann Chisholm, 16 months, Negro sisters, were carried unconscious from their burning home in Brookhaven by a neighbor. But efforts to revive them failed.

Police said they died of asphyxiation or carbon monoxide poisoning.

Their two-month-old sister, Darlene, was taken to Brookhaven Hospital in critical condition.

Police said a kerosene cooking stove, used for heating, caused the fire

The mother, Rosalie, 20, was visiting her landlord's house about 50 feet away at the time of the fire, police said.

To Ask 7 Million More for Welfare Because of Costs

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The state's social welfare commissioner says a recommended $7,400,000 increase in welfare outlays is dictated by rising costs.

Raymond W. Houston appealed Saturday for favorable legislative action on proposed increases in state aid to localities for public assistance.

In letters to Austin W. Erwin, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and William H. MacKenzie, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, Houston said the increases are "tied to the stern facts of life."

Erwin and MacKenzie will preside over a public hearing Wednesday on Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $2,041,000,000 budget.

Houston said rising costs were plaguing not only public welfare but private welfare agencies. His department's recommended increases, he said, represent "minimum need."

Unemployment Is Reported Close to 5 Million Mark

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment is climbing back close to the five-million mark, economists reported today. They said a figure approaching that mark may be shown in the government's January count, due out Tuesday.

Joblessness normally rises in the winter months because of the weather's effect on construction, farm and other outdoor activities. The five-million mark has not been exceeded since last April, when the jobless count was 5,120,000.

But in recent months job idleness has been running a little ahead of corresponding months a year ago. In December the total was 4,108,000 or 734,000 more than the 3,374,000 in December 1957.

The figure for January 1958 was 4,494,000, a jump of well over a million from December.

If the January 1959 idle total increases by anything like the million or so normally registered in that month, the total will be close to or over five million—and well over the figure for a year ago.

The figures indicate that while business has improved substantially from its recession depths, the job picture still is gloomy.

This in itself is not too surpris-

Claims Ike Press Head Intervened

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man who ignited last year's dramatic Sherman Adams case now wants Congress to investigate White House press secretary James C. Hagerty.

Dr. Bernard Schwartz, a former House investigator, called for the probe Sunday after accusing Haggerty of stepping into a television case for political reasons. Hagerty immediately denied this.

"Mr. Schwartz was either misinformed or was deliberately lying," he said.

Charges in Book

Schwartz, who is a New York University law professor, makes his charge against Hagerty in a forthcoming book, "The Professor and the Commissions." Parts of the book were released Saturday.

Last year, the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee removed Schwartz as chief counsel. But, exploring some of his accusations and using files he has assembled, it launched investigations that led to the resignations of Adams, who was President Eisenhower's chief assistant, and Richard A. Mack, a federal communications commissioner.

The accusation against Hagerty involves a television station in the Albany-Schenectady area of New York and a series of decisions by the Federal Communications Commission.

Claims Reversal

Hagerty said the FCC had made its decision before he requested some information about it.

But Schwartz said, "The facts do show that three months after Mr. Hagerty intervened the FCC did reverse its original decision."

The case, as outlined by Hagerty's documents, followed this sequence:

On March 1, 1957, William J. Embler, a Republican and research consultant to the speaker of New York's State Assembly, wrote Hagerty protesting an FCC decision to change station WRGB from a very high frequency (VHF) station to an ultra high frequency station (UHF).

"As one who is not a stockholder in anything but is concerned with the success of the Republican party it would seem to me that some consideration should be given to the fact that such a change will leave many families without television because UHF can not reach them and will put many others to the expense of conversion or buying new sets," Embler wrote.

Another Note

He followed with a similar note three days later. On March 5, Hagerty answered the letters, saying, "You do have a good point. I have passed your letter along to the interested people here and asked them for an answer."

The same day, Hagerty sent a note, marked "personal," to George C. McConnaughey, then chairman of the FCC. It said:

"I received the attached letter from a personal friend of mine in Albany. I thought you would like to see it. Is there any way I can answer him?"

Explains Policy

In a long letter March 13, McConnaughey answered Hagerty. He explained the FCC had embarked on a policy of making television areas either all VHF or all UHF. Since most of the stations in the Albany-Schenectady area were UHF, the commission want-

Says Policies Ruined Production, Stability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther told Congress today that different governmental policies could have pushed the nation's production more than 100 billion dollars higher in the past six years.

"This production that we have now forever lost could well have spelled the difference between an unchallenged continuation of United States world leadership and the threatened, uneasy position in which we find ourselves today," he said.

Outlines Program

Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers and an AFL-CIO vice president, outlined an extensive program of government activities he said would assure full employment and economic growth. His testimony was prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee studying general economic trends.

Before the same group, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce contended that government policies are the greatest single cause of inflation, exceeding acts of both business and labor in that respect.

Reuther called on the government to work toward increased consumer buying power, extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act coverage to millions of workers in trade and services, raising the present $1 an hour minimum wage to at least $1.25, and a concerted program of federal aid to depressed areas.

Different Approach

The Chamber of Commerce urged a different approach.

The chamber said possible inflationary effects of private market power, whether of business or labor, are insignificant when compared to the inflation generated by government spending, taxing and debt policies.

Views of the chamber were presented by its assistant director of economic research, Walter Fackler.

Both the chamber and the National Assn. of Manufacturers called for federal tax revamping.

Fackler said in his prepared testimony the present tax system penalizes success, discourages initiative and restricts investment.

He also recommended new approaches to federal-state relations, describing the present programs of federal grants to states as wasteful. He suggested encouragement of state and local governments to provide educational and community facilities.

Auxiliary Police Meet at 7:30 P.M.

The meeting will be held in the city courtroom, city hall, and Chief Ben Orkoff urges all members to attend and hear a discussion "of the final phase of the pre-attacking planning and operation of evacuation of the city of Kingston in any type of emergency."

Air Force Likely To Cut Strength Below 90 Wings

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force probably will shrink its organizational size to fewer than 90 wings during the next five or six years—smallest since the wholesale demobilization following World War II.

These wings will include missile outfits as well as manned aircraft. Part of the cutback will be in B47 medium bomber wings as more efficient means of delivering destruction replace these planes.

Improvement Main Aim

Economy seems to play only a small part in the trend, which began about two years ago. Improvement of both aircraft and missiles accounts primarily for the change.

The nuclear firepower which can be delivered by even 90 wings will be thousands of times that of the huge bomber fleets of World War II.

The military budget now being debated in Congress says that there will be a "modest reduction in the number of wings in the Air Force, from 105 at the end of the current fiscal year (next June 30) to 102 at the end of 1960."

The slow reduction in wing strength started after a peak postwar strength of 137 was reached in mid-1957.

Size of Wings Vary

Ashby Case In Quiz on Kickbacks

Says Warning Was Given on Perjury

By giving "false" testimony last October before the special grand jury investigating "kickbacks," Edwin W. Ashby attempted to "block and frustrate" the grand jury investigation and "stop our inquiry then and there," leaving unexplained the question as to where some $19,000 which he had received from the late Frank Buckley of Troy ultimately went.

That was the charge made by special attorney general Bernard Tompkins in his opening remarks to the jury today.

Ashby is on trial in Ulster County on an indictment charging he gave false information to a grand jury probing reports of kickbacks to officials from materials suppliers.

At his request Ashby, county commissioner of jurors, has been put on leave without pay during his trial.

Says Stories False

Tompkins said it would be shown that Ashby's testimony given before the grand jury was false, that he knew it was false when he gave it and that on his second appearance before the grand jury in an attempt to purge himself Ashby told a second story which was "untrue."

The prosecution said it would be shown that Ashby has "intended to lie" before the grand jury on Oct. 3 when he first appeared and said the money was paid for commissions.

Understood Oath

It will be shown, the prosecution said, that Ashby, when asked if he expected the grand jury to believe this story he first told, replied that "It is the truth. I know I am under oath. If I was making up a story I could make up a better one."

Tompkins said Ashby was warned about committing perjurfy. The delay in appearance of Ashby before the grand jury between Oct. 3 and Oct. 27 was due to a request by his counsel, Paul Rosen of Poughkeepsie.

It would be shown that Ashby in his second appearance admitted his first story was false, that it was a "pack of lies" and that the first story "concocted," the prosecution said.

Involves Wicks

His attempt to recant on Oct. 27 is "by no stretch of the imagination a recantation," Tompkins said. Ashby on his second appearance said he had been sent to Troy to see Buckley by former Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and that none of the money was brought back to Kingston, except a small sum which he was paid for his services.

This story can be shown to be untrue, Tompkins said.

Tompkins said Senator Wicks had come "voluntarily to Kingston from Florida and would testify as a witness.

Calls It Attempted Block

In his opening remarks, Tompkins said that it would be shown that Ashby sought to "block and frustrate the grand jury investigation," and that his second story was designed to "lead the grand jury up a blind alley. Buckley is dead. If the transaction took place in Rensselaer County, we have no jurisdiction." He said the story was "concocted" to "stop our inquiry then and there and leave the rest unexplained."

One clash between counsel took place. N. LeVan Haver, Ashby's trial attorney, objected to a statement that Senator

Levitt May Be Direct With Tax Cut Appeal

Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt may make an unusual, direct appeal to the Legislature this week to cut back the sweeping income tax increase that Gov. Rockefeller proposes.

A source close to the Democratic comptroller said Levitt was considering a personal appearance at the annual budget hearing Wednesday to lead his party's attack on the Rockefeller plan.

The hearing is expected to be a stormy one. The Legislature's fiscal committees reported requests for permission to speak far outstripped those of recent years.

Fresh Attack Sunday

Levitt fired a fresh salvo at Rockefeller Sunday night, offering what he said was statistical proof that the Republican governor did not need a 23 per cent income tax boost to balance his record $2,041,000,000 budget.

The comptroller charged that Rockefeller's plan would produce 150 million dollars in extra revenues, as Rockefeller estimated, but at least 230 million—and probably 257 million.

Asks Probe Of Hagerty In TV Case

Claims Ike Press Head Intervened

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man who ignited last year's dramatic Sherman Adams case now wants Congress to investigate White House press secretary James C. Hagerty.

Dr. Bernard Schwartz, a former House investigator, called for the probe Sunday after accusing Haggerty of stepping into a television case for political reasons. Hagerty immediately denied this.

"Mr. Schwartz was either misinformed or was deliberately lying," he said.

Charges in Book

Schwartz, who is a New York University law professor, makes his charge against Hagerty in a forthcoming book, "The Professor and the Commissions." Parts of the book were released Saturday.

Last year, the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee removed Schwartz as chief counsel. But, exploring some of his accusations and using files he has assembled, it launched investigations that led to the resignations of Adams, who was President Eisenhower's chief assistant, and Richard A. The accusation against Hagerty involves a television station in the Albany-Schenectady area of New York and a series of decisions by the Federal Communications Commission.

Claims Reversal

Hagerty said the FCC had made its decision before he requested some information about it.

But Schwartz said, "The facts do show that three months after Mr. Hagerty intervened the FCC did reverse its original decision."

The case, as outlined by Hagerty's documents, followed this sequence:

On March 1, 1957, William J. Embler, a Republican and research consultant to the speaker of New York's State Assembly, wrote Hagerty protesting an FCC decision to change station WRGB from a very high frequency (VHF) station to an ultra high frequency station (UHF).

He followed with a similar note three days later. On March 5, Hagerty answered the letters, saying, "You do have a good point. I have passed your letter along to the interested people here and asked them for an answer."

The same day, Hagerty sent a note, marked "personal," to George C. McConnaughey, then chairman of the FCC. It said:

"I received the attached letter from a personal friend of mine in Albany. I thought you would like to see it. Is there any way I can answer him?"

Says Policies Ruined Production, Stability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther told Congress today that different governmental policies could have pushed the nation's production more than 100 billion dollars higher in the past six years.

"This production that we have now forever lost could well have spelled the difference between an unchallenged continuation of United States world leadership and the threatened, uneasy position in which we find ourselves today," he said.

Outlines Program

Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers and an AFL-CIO vice president, outlined an extensive program of government activities he said would assure full employment and economic growth. His testimony was prepared for the Senate-House Economic Committee studying general economic trends.

Before the same group, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce contended that government policies are the greatest single cause of inflation, exceeding acts of both business and labor in that respect.

Reuther called on the government to work toward increased consumer buying power, extension of the Fair Labor Standards Act coverage to millions of workers in trade and services, raising the present $1 an hour minimum wage to at least $1.25, and a concerted program of federal aid to depressed areas.

Different Approach

The Chamber of Commerce urged a different approach.

The chamber said possible inflationary effects of private market power, whether of business or labor, are insignificant when compared to the inflation generated by government spending, taxing and debt policies.

Views of the chamber were presented by its assistant director of economic research, Walter Fackler.

Both the chamber and the National Assn. of Manufacturers called for federal tax revamping.

Fackler said in his prepared testimony the present tax system penalizes success, discourages initiative and restricts investment.

He also recommended new approaches to federal-state relations, describing the present programs of federal grants to states as wasteful. He suggested encouragement of state and local governments to provide educational and community facilities.

Air Force Likely To Cut Strength Below 90 Wings

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force probably will shrink its organizational size to fewer than 90 wings during the next five or six years—smallest since the wholesale demobilization following World War II.

These wings will include missile outfits as well as manned aircraft. Part of the cutback will be in B47 medium bomber wings as more efficient means of delivering destruction replace these planes.

Improvement Main Aim

Economy seems to play only a small part in the trend, which began about two years ago. Improvement of both aircraft and missiles accounts primarily for the change.

The nuclear firepower which can be delivered by even 90 wings will be thousands of times that of the huge bomber fleets of World War II.

The military budget now being debated in Congress says that there will be a "modest reduction in the number of wings in the Air Force, from 105 at the end of the current fiscal year (next June 30) to 102 at the end of 1960."

The slow reduction in wing strength started after a peak postwar strength of 137 was reached in mid-1957.

Size of Wings Vary

Ashby Case In Quiz on Kickbacks

Says Warning Was Given on Perjury

By giving "false" testimony last October before the special grand jury investigating "kickbacks," Edwin W. Ashby attempted to "block and frustrate" the grand jury investigation and "stop our inquiry then and there," leaving unexplained the question as to where some $19,000 which he had received from the late Frank Buckley of Troy ultimately went.

That was the charge made by special attorney general Bernard Tompkins in his opening remarks to the jury today.

Ashby is on trial in Ulster County on an indictment charging he gave false information to a grand jury probing reports of kickbacks to officials from materials suppliers.

At his request Ashby, county commissioner of jurors, has been put on leave without pay during his trial.

Says Stories False

Tompkins said it would be shown that Ashby's testimony given before the grand jury was false, that he knew it was false when he gave it and that on his second appearance before the grand jury in an attempt to purge himself Ashby told a second story which was "untrue."

The prosecution said it would be shown that Ashby has "intended to lie" before the grand jury on Oct. 3 when he first appeared and said the money was paid for commissions.

Understood Oath

It will be shown, the prosecution said, that Ashby, when asked if he expected the grand jury to believe this story he first told, replied that "It is the truth. I know I am under oath. If I was making up a story I could make up a better one."

Tompkins said Ashby was warned about committing perjurfy. The delay in appearance of Ashby before the grand jury between Oct. 3 and Oct. 27 was due to a request by his counsel, Paul Rosen of Poughkeepsie.

It would be shown that Ashby in his second appearance admitted his first story was false, that it was a "pack of lies" and that the first story "concocted," the prosecution said.

Involves Wicks

His attempt to recant on Oct. 27 is "by no stretch of the imagination a recantation," Tompkins said. Ashby on his second appearance said he had been sent to Troy to see Buckley by former Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and that none of the money was brought back to Kingston, except a small sum which he was paid for his services.

This story can be shown to be untrue, Tompkins said.

Tompkins said Senator Wicks had come "voluntarily to Kingston from Florida and would testify as a witness.

Calls It Attempted Block

In his opening remarks, Tompkins said that it would be shown that Ashby sought to "block and frustrate the grand jury investigation," and that his second story was designed to "lead the grand jury up a blind alley. Buckley is dead. If the transaction took place in Rensselaer County, we have no jurisdiction." He said the story was "concocted" to "stop our inquiry then and there and leave the rest unexplained."

One clash between counsel took place. N. LeVan Haver, Ashby's trial attorney, objected to a statement that Senator

2 Lies: Tompkins; No Money Probe

Wicks could not be brought back from Florida by subpoena.

Haver said he could. Tompkins said Florida law would not permit it.

Blames Prosecution

Haver, in his opening remarks, said that the prosecution never made any attempt to find out where the money went. "He did not want to know."

Haver said Senator Wicks was available last fall before he went to Florida but had not been called before the grand jury after Ashby said he had been sent to Troy at the request of Wicks.

If the grand jury had been vitally interested in finding out where the money went, not only Ashby and Morgan D. Ryan Ryan could have been called, but Harry Barieka, a former salesman for Buckley, could have been questioned, Haver said.

Haver said the law permitted campaign contributions and intimated that many large companies and individuals make substantial contributions to political campaigns.

Says Facts Stand Out

Haver said Ashby had told an untrue story, but later wanted to correct that story and purge himself "in a reasonable time." That action was discussed with the prosecution the day following Ashby's first appearance before the grand jury but Haver stated that the facts stood out like "beacon light in a fog."

The prosecution has "squirmed" for three weeks "to keep the name of Senator Wicks out of the inquiry," Haver said.

He intimated the grand jury had considered offering Ashby immunity.

Haver said Ashby had given false testimony at his first appearance in a "misguided sense of loyalty to protect someone."

Defense counsel said Ashby probably would be a witness. Counsel said it would be shown that "Buckley had difficulty in getting money ou of his business" and drawn the checks to Ashby for that purpose.

Haver stated that Buckley paid the income tax incurred by Ashby through these check payments, indicating that Buckley himself did receive the money back from Ashby.

Would Question Tompkins

Haver said Tompkins would be called to the stand and questioned about "other things" than the Ashby perjury case.

Emil P. Rode, foreman of the special grand jury which returned the indictment, was the first witness called. He said the grand jury had wondered why Senator Wicks was not called before the grand jury.

Rode said the grand jury was informed that Haver had been Senator Wicks' attorney, that Wicks was in Florida and that Haver had said Senator Wicks would not come up from Florida to testify. If he did so, it would be "over his (Haver's) dead body," according to Rode.

Rode gave dates of grand jury sessions from Oct. 3 through the concluding session of 1958. There were six sessions between Oct. 3 and Oct. 27 when Ashby changed his former story.

The morning session closed with the testimony of Richard Brito, grand jury reporter, who identified the grand jury record and that portion of the record concerning Ashby's testimony. The Ashby testimony before the grand jury will be read into the record.

Theft Reported Of $300 at Moose Club on Sunday

Theft of about $300 from the Moose Club on Prince Street was reported to the police Sunday.

Entrance was reported gained by the forcing of a window by a person or persons who walked over the roof of the lower Kaplan bag plant building at the rear of the club.

The money was taken from a cash register, cigarette and game machines, and a cash box. A filing cabinet was opened in the club's office, but there $60 in cash and some checks, although removed from the cabinet had been left on top of it, apparently overlooked.

The window, police said, had apparently been forced with a screwdriver, and a rear door leading to the bar was forced open. Police found evidence that the person, or persons in the building had been locked in a room, and a door was forced in getting out after the theft was committed.

2 Lies: Tompkins; No Money Probe

Wicks could not be brought back from Florida by subpoena.

Haver said he could. Tompkins said Florida law would not permit it.

Blames Prosecution

Haver, in his opening remarks, said that the prosecution never made any attempt to find out where the money went. "He did not want to know."

Haver said Senator Wicks was available last fall before he went to Florida but had not been called before the grand jury after Ashby said he had been sent to Troy at the request of Wicks.

If the grand jury had been vitally interested in finding out where the money went, not only Ashby and Morgan D. Ryan Ryan could have been called, but Harry Barieka, a former salesman for Buckley, could have been questioned, Haver said.

Haver said the law permitted campaign contributions and intimated that many large companies and individuals make substantial contributions to political campaigns.

Says Facts Stand Out

Haver said Ashby had told an untrue story, but later wanted to correct that story and purge himself "in a reasonable time." That action was discussed with the prosecution the day following Ashby's first appearance before the grand jury but Haver stated that the facts stood out like "beacon light in a fog."

The prosecution has "squirmed" for three weeks "to keep the name of Senator Wicks out of the inquiry," Haver said.

He intimated the grand jury had considered offering Ashby immunity.

Haver said Ashby had given false testimony at his first appearance in a "misguided sense of loyalty to protect someone."

Defense counsel said Ashby probably would be a witness. Counsel said it would be shown that "Buckley had difficulty in getting money ou of his business" and drawn the checks to Ashby for that purpose.

Haver stated that Buckley paid the income tax incurred by Ashby through these check payments, indicating that Buckley himself did receive the money back from Ashby.

Would Question Tompkins

Haver said Tompkins would be called to the stand and questioned about "other things" than the Ashby perjury case.

Emil P. Rode, foreman of the special grand jury which returned the indictment, was the first witness called. He said the grand jury had wondered why Senator Wicks was not called before the grand jury.

Rode said the grand jury was informed that Haver had been Senator Wicks' attorney, that Wicks was in Florida and that Haver had said Senator Wicks would not come up from Florida to testify. If he did so, it would be "over his (Haver's) dead body," according to Rode.

Rode gave dates of grand jury sessions from Oct. 3 through the concluding session of 1958. There were six sessions between Oct. 3 and Oct. 27 when Ashby changed his former story.

The morning session closed with the testimony of Richard Brito, grand jury reporter, who identified the grand jury record and that portion of the record concerning Ashby's testimony. The Ashby testimony before the grand jury will be read into the record.

Mrs. S. B. Chappell, publicity chairman for the local organization, said today that "we believe this is God's world and His purpose for it is good. All people are His children, all people have rights as individuals, freedom of choice and responsibility to respect the rights of others.

"God can and does work through us to create the conditions of peace. Let us then pursue what makes for peace and for mutual upbuilding. Pray for deepened spiritual life, for the healing of the nations and for faith which expresses itself in love of mankind.

"God bless this day which from its start calls all of earth to prayer. O let Thy spirit fill each heart that hears Thy voice and draws apart. Both here and everywhere."

Steel Spurt Big Help To Business Recovery

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel industry today is stiffening the backbone of the business recovery. Sales are up. New orders are up. Production is rising. And profits in the last few months have shown a spectacular recovery from the low point of a year ago.

Most steel companies report impressive gains in net income after taxes in the final three months of 1958. The increases over the year ago figures range as high as 200 per cent, although the gain for the industry as a whole is around 25 per cent.

Can't Offset All

But the fourth quarter spurt in income still couldn't entirely offset for the majority of steel companies the bleak months of early 1958.

Of 23 steel concerns reporting so far, including the largest ones, 20 report 1958 earnings running behind 1957. All but two small ones, however, managed to end 1958 in the black — and this despite the fact that the industry in the trough of the recession was operating at less than half capacity.

The ups and downs of the industry are charted in the profit statements of recent years.

Combined the 23 report 1958 earnings as $745,390,000, compared with $1,069,910,000 in 1957. This was a drop of 30.3 per cent. The 1957 earnings, in turn, were 3.4 per cent higher than those of 1956, which were off 10.5 per cent from 1955. In that year of the big business boom steel industry profits soared 74.3 per cent over depressed 1954.

Reasons for Profit

How could the steel industry show a profit instead of a loss in 1958, with output cut back over most of the period, and even the sales increases of the last few months much less impressive than the rise in profits?

Steelmen offer two reasons. First, during the recession the industry, like many others, went in heavily for cost cutting. Where possible, fat was trimmed from the overhead, and easy going practices of boom days were discarded. Second, the industry closed down marginal and aging facilities. It got the benefit of the new and more efficient mills built in profusion since the end of the war.

Responses to Pressure Seen Factor

Time, Events Until 1960 To Affect Nixon and Rocky

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Time and events between now and 1960 will affect chances of both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination.

The pressure of events, and the two men's responses to them, will almost certainly raise or lower their political attractiveness, at least as compared with each other, before it's time for the Republican nominating convention

The very nature of the vice presidency ordinarily leaves the holder of that office overshadowed by the White House and with little more to do than preside over the Senate. So Nixon might seem the one least likely to be affected by events and therefore best able to retain what popularity he already has.

Requires Direction

Rockefeller's job requires more direct action. The governor's leadership, his administrative ability, his policies and his thinking and therefore his voter appeal will undergo in these next two years both testing and examination.

He can't stand still His performance as governor of the nation's richest and most populous state will tend to increase or diminish his presidential prospects, since voters of both parties around the country will be watching him.

He has already shown a willingness to stick his neck out. Almost his first action as governor has called forth protests by some voters who would be affected by what he wants: he has asked the Republican-run legislature for a 277-million-dollar tax increase, including a boost in income taxes.

His reasoning: he wants to avoid a deficit in state spending and balance the budget while still providing enough funds to avoid cutting some state social programs, like aid to education and localities. He has a fight on his hands and at this moment can not be sure of winning.

Veep Is Aggressive

Nixon, whose job calls for little need to stick out his neck, could rock away his time in the Senate, avoiding stands on controversial issues which might cost him popularity

But Nixon is an aggressive man. He may feel it necessary for him to take sides—or he may feel forced into it as a member of the Eisenhower administration—on issues pending before Congress and involving various Eisenhower programs and policies from civil rights to defense and controlled spending

Aggressive stands on such issues could boost him or bruise him, particularly since organized labor and business would have an interest in most of the issues.

The President already has given him an assignment which could affect his 1960 chances and lies in the same field—economics—which has Rockefeller involved now.

The President named him chairman of a Cabinet committee to examine the problems of inflation and seek ways to maintain reasonable price stability while sustaining economic growth

Bell Plans Comeback With Vertical Jet

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — The Bell Aircraft Corp. hopes to get back in the airplane business with a supersonic jet fighter that would take off vertically.

The company, which has laid off thousands in the past year, said Saturday it will unveil a full-scale mock-up of the plane, the XF109, later this month for military officers.

The design project has been supported by the Air Force and the Navy. If the design is approved, Bell presumably would build some experimental models.

Bell has successfully flown two vertical take off jets. Neither ever reached the production stage.

POSITIVE PLAN FOR GERMANY

The United States need not and should not take any action with regard either to Berlin, to Germany or to Europe which represents a yielding of even the smallest order to Russian ultimatums, deadlines and similar forcing efforts, including the recent halting of a truck convoy at the East-West German border.

We know there is no genuine crisis in Berlin or Germany. There is only the artificial stir created by Moscow.

We have to consider, however, that aside from its usual purpose of trying to keep the West off balance, the Kremlin may by these maneuvers be attempting in its crude way to get at some sort of settlement of the German problem.

This possibility we cannot ignore, and the evidence is that we will not.

In the months ahead—perhaps most pointedly after the expiration of Russia's arrogantly proposed May 27 deadline for our departure from Berlin—we should be prepared for a full and fresh exploration of all issues pertaining to Germany and a larger European settlement.

Conferences among Western diplomats with that end in view are now being undertaken. They should be thorough and searching. The issues need new imagination, brighter invention than they have had in recent times.

Whatever we come up with, there can of course be no discussion or negotiation over Berlin alone. Even to entertain such talks would be to concede that our unchallenged right to be in Berlin is subject to negotiation, which it is not.

What we must indicate to the Russians is our awareness that in their savage manner, like a kid banging on a pan to get attention, they have asked for a new look at Germany and Europe. No narrower approach will do.

If they will talk on this basis, then we must seize the opportunity for presenting a broad, positive program for settlement which will pass the multiple tests of safeguarding Germany and the West, offering assurances of security from German attack to the Russians, and winning the general support of world opinion as a sound contribution to peace.

Germany is the key to Europe. We, not the Russians, must be the ones to turn it in the lock.

MORE AND MORE AGED

A Midwestern state legislator touched off a committee hassle the other day by proposing that employers be barred from rejecting job applicants on grounds of excessive age. Whatever one may think of such a proposal, the incident does point up a problem which deserves more attention than it has yet received.

This is the problem—actually, a complex of problems—occasioned by the rising percentage of the aged in our population. This increase in the proportionate number of older persons is no longer something to be thought about as a matter for future concern. "As modern medicine cuts back the accident or disease for older people," the National Planning Association said recently, "the problem of an ever-growing older population is becoming acute."

The problem has two basic aspects, and they are inter-related. The first of these is that many, perhaps a majority, of the aged have inadequate income or financial resources. An important factor in this is the reluctance of employers to take on or retain older workers. The second aspect is the special needs—in housing, medical care, ease of social contact with others, and so forth—that must be met if the aged are to have a satisfying life.

One important point to remember is that the very fact of U.S. prosperity aggravates the old age problem in this country. The United States, like other nations with well developed economies, has a higher proportion of aged persons than do the underdeveloped countries. Yet our wealth, which adds to the problem, also gives us the means to deal with it effectively and generously.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE FIRST LINE

It is impossible to minimize the importance of education. Nevertheless, in this country there are too many parents and taxpayers who believe that they can afford bargain-counter and cut-rate education for their children. Dumb, ignorant, untrained people cannot and will not save this country in an era when chemistry, physics, meteorology, Geology, engineering of all kinds and similar techniques and disciplines are essential to our national existence.

As Admiral Hyman G. Rickover has repeated over and over again:

". . . We are only beginning to fully grasp the fact that education is our first line of defense which we neglect at our peril."

Here in New York, at the moment that I write this article, the night high schools have closed down because teachers refuse to work for inadequate pay. And anyone who employs any kind of workers here, from a receptionist and a typist up, knows that teachers are underpaid.

But it is not just a matter of money. Teachers must learn. A teacher who only teaches but does not learn is obsolescent in no time. Learning costs money and for a teacher that can mean books, magazines, travel, summer college and all sorts of devices for keeping up with the advances of knowledge which roll into the realm of learning like an avalanche. Boys and girls who read newspapers and magazines must not encounter a tired, weary, two job teacher who has not had the time to keep up-to-date and who is not, as the saying goes, one bone ahead of the pupil.

It is a perilous situation and, in the opinion of many educators, the basic trouble is inadequate payment of teachers for the type of work teachers have to do. To some tax-paying parents, ridden ragged by taxes which have become a horrifying item in every family's budget, it often seems that the schools could do with less money, never realizing that what is taken out of schools' budgets is usually taken out of teachers' salaries and that that cannot be done without the entire school system collapsing. Let the budget makers eliminate duplications, graft, useless jobs, dishonest relief, swindling contractors—but increase the pay of teachers. Parents whose families have grown up and are no longer at any school, sometimes forget how important the school can be to the community.

Admiral Rickover made another point which is extremely important:

". . . Knowledge increases so rapidly today that extreme specialization is inevitable. This could easily raise a barrier between the mass of the people on one side and numerous small groups of experts on the other; each little group of specialists seeking to silence public criticism on the grounds that the people are too ignorant to have a valid opinion. We ought not allow such undemocratic viewpoints to prevail. One does not have to be an expert himself to be able to judge whether the expert has done his job satisfactorily."

The real danger is not so much in the individual but in the various pressure groups which are organized for special purposes and seem often to outlive their usefulness but who nevertheless continue to labor not only to collect money but to seek to suppress conflicting points of view. They often use an argument similar to the "anti-party" condemnation of Soviet Russia. If one is not in style intellectually and spiritually, he is to be condemned. This persecution of the individual was very general at the height of the "New Deal," and subsequently Communists and others were brought before Congressional committees. The Left Wingers, having seen what Russian purges did, developed an hysteria which they called McCarthyism and which became a political issue in the United States.

Whenever differences and divergencies of opinion are suppressed, a nation dies, first spiritually and then physically. It fascinates me that Admiral Rickover, a scientist and a naval man, is devoting himself to arousing the country to the need for proper education. He, who developed the atomic submarine, has really rediscovered the first line of defense—it is the school house. And Americans would do well to follow his guidance. I used to talk about dedication, but it is asking too much of a young man who can work for a decent living in a laboratory, let us say, of a company working on space rockets, to teach under present conditions. His job can be dedication too.

No Room to Maneuver

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It's the same old hassle as every year—when the Department of Defense budget comes up.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff issue a statement that the budget is adequate and they fully support it, BUT—

What comes after the "but" is that each service chief thinks his Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Air Force should have a few billions more. That's the way it is now.

On Jan. 19, the day the President's budget message went to Congress, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy sent the JCS a memo for signature. It contained three main elements which boil down to this:

THE 1960 PROGRAM is adequate for U. S. defense.

The budget contains no gaps.

But some of the programs are not adequately funded.

All the chiefs signed like good boys. This was apparently intended to indicate to Congress and the American people that there is no need to increase the defense budget above President Eisenhower's 45 billion.

It may also have been expected to gag the chiefs and prevent them from asking Congress for more money.

As usual, it hasn't worked that way. It never does.

Ever since the JCS memo was signed, there has been one leak after another to increase service appropriations.

Part of this agitation comes from congressmen who have soft spots for a particular service—like the Marines.

Others are convinced that Department of Defense is concentrating on push-button general warfare, to the neglect of conventional small wars which are more likely.

STILL OTHERS believe the Eisenhower administration is too concerned with balancing the budget, not enough with providing for an all-out retaliatory attack against Russia.

Advocates of these policies drag from the chiefs—oh, so reluctantly—their modest requests for more billions.

Thus Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, expresses concern over the cut of his strategic army corps from four divisions to three. This is the force supposed to be ready for quick transport to any world trouble spot.

Another cause for Army complaint is lack of funds for replacement of obsolescent weapons. General Taylor has been recommending three billion dollars a year for five years. The new budget asks 1.2 billion for new weapons.

About [illegible] million dollars are allocated for Army's Nike Zeus antimissile missile research. The complaint is that this sum isn't enough for full speed development.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, complains that his budget request was cut 2½ billion dollars—from 14 to 11½. He implies this cut may mean spending more money later on to provide for replacement of obsolescent World War II vessels at a rate faster than 2 per cent a year.

hlbo

ON NAVY AIRCRAFT, Admiral Burke's complaint is that he will be given only enough money to replace planes worn out in service or lost in accidents—not enough to add to his aerial striking force.

Marine Commandant Gen. Randolph McC. Pate expresses usual dissatisfaction over reduction of his force.

The Air Force reservation of Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White is that if the missile strength called for in the new budget is sufficient only to knock out enemy cities—not enough to knock out enemy missile and bomber bases—then the United States cannot preclude attack.

The point made in all these dissenting opinions is that the long-range aspects of national defense are being shortchanged. The catch is that this is entirely consistent with the JCS signed statement that the defense budget now before Congress is adequate for U. S. security in 1960.

Most Medicines Last if Stored Properly, Caution Is Advised

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Today's first question is an interesting one, to which a careful reply must be given.

Q—Please tell me if medicines prescribed by a physician are still safe to take after one or two years?—Mrs. H. D.

A—Almost all medicines consist of one or more chemical substances and many of these do change. The speed of such change depends on the nature of the chemicals, the temperature at which they are stored, the exposure to air, and other factors.

In other words, some medicines, particularly if unopened and stored under the proper temperature and light conditions, are likely to remain the same for longer than if they have been opened and stored at relatively high temperatures and in light. In many instances the manufacturers place on the label the storage conditions desirable and how long the medicines are considered to be good to use.

In general, fresh medicines are likely to be somewhat stronger than old ones. It seems to be rather rare for any serious effects to occur, however, from taking medicines which have been on the shelves for a reasonable period.

Q—What is the cause and treatment for impaired blood circulation of the feet?—R. S.

A—There are several possibilities. The most important are hardening of the arteries in the lower extremities, varicose veins, and impaired circulation resulting from heart disease.

Diagnosis of the cause of the impaired circulation must come before treatment, since what can be done obviously depends on the cause.

Q—Is there any danger to the eyes from fluorescent lighting?—Mrs. T. R.

A—Recently this subject was discussed in a brief report from the Council on Industrial Health of the American Medical Association. It was pointed out that light from some fluorescent lamps resembles daylight more closely than that from the other type of electric lighting, and this is a desirable quality.

Some individuals are light sensitive and experience eye discomfort from light regardless of its type. Noticeable flicker may be present in single-tube fluorescent installations, but is usually eliminated in modern multiple-tube lighting.

The conclusion reached is that fluorescent lighting is not harmful to the eyes and does not cause visual discomfort if properly installed, maintained and used.

Q—What is the normal length of time for digestion of meals?—D. B.

A—The time for emptying of the stomach will vary, depending on the amount eaten and the nature of the food, since some foods are digested more rapidly than others. It also varies somewhat from one person to another and, indeed, in the same person from time to time.

Ordinarily, however, the stomach is pretty well emptied in from one to two hours after the average meal in the healthy person.

Reds Seen Caught in Lie By Calling 'Tape' a Fake

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The United State government has again caught the Soviet government in a willful lie about the murderous attack on seventeen Americans traveling in an unarmed transport plane last September. Moscow now claims that the tape recording issued by the State Department here last week is a "fake"—but that's nonsense, and the Soviets know it. Consider these facts:

1. The Soviet government was offered on last Nov. 13 a chance to listen to the tape recording, but Ambassador Menshikov here refused and finally accepted only a typewritten copy of the transcript of the conversation between the Soviet flyers telling how they were in the act of shooting down an American transport plane near the Turkish border. Why didn't the Soviets call it a "fake" before? They had three months to say so publicly—or privately—to the American government.

Authenticity Checked

2. The officials of the United States government and their intelligence staffs knew full well that the question of authenticity might be raised, and so they checked and double checked every angle. Also, the American plane was in communication with Western ground stations just a few minutes before the attack. The time and approximate location were established beforehand beyond question.

3. There is a monitoring system set up by the United States and its allies close to the Soviet border of Turkey and other Middle Eastern boundaries, as well as in Western Europe and Canada. This vast electronic apparatus requires a big staff. Persons familiar with the Soviet languages monitor these listening posts along the Russian border, but highly trained American officers on the spot supervise the work as a part of the United States Air Force defense system.

Transcripts Made Daily

4. Authentic transcripts of the chatter that goes on between Soviet airplanes are recorded daily—sometimes simultaneously from three or four different monitoring points. These are constantly checked against one another. The transcript of the episode which cost seventeen American airmen their lives as the Soviet patrols shot down the unarmed transport plane was checked and double checked most carefully before being formally presented to the Soviet government last November. It was recorded by the same personnel whose recordings have been continuously checked—and proved—in the past as authentic.

5. The Soviet newspapers, by government direction, now criticize certain words in the translation issued by the State Department here. It is true that some Russian words could be translated in various ways, such as "you boys" or "you fellows" or "you comrades." It's hard, sometimes, to translate the vernacular or idiomatic phrases. But if anyone has any doubts about the exact meaning of the original Russian script, let him listen to it. When Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy invited Ambassador Menshikov in Washington to listen to the tape recording and he refused, the same offer was made to the Russian Embassy's air attache but this also was declined.

Tape to Be Broadcast

6. Portions of the tape now have been played on the radio in this country in Russian, and will be repeated in international broadcasting so that anyone who understands the Russian language can make his own translation and decide for himself whether the basic facts of the transcript as issued by the Department of State are in accord with what the voices on the tape itself say.

Officials here are astounded at the flatness of the Russian denial of the authenticity of the tape recording, and the only way they can figure it out at all is to assume that the Soviets, once having taken a position of complete innocence, do not dare now to change their minds. All the American airmen presumably are dead—so the Russians think the issue cannot ever be resolved.

Lies Seen Hurting Reds

The Soviets could have contended that the attack on the American plane was not ordered by Moscow—for, obviously, there wasn't time to get such orders to their own planes—and that the Soviet patrol mistakenly acted on general orders to shoot down what it might have thought to be armed planes. This could have explained what happened, but it cannot now explain the reason for the lying.

For the Soviet government has done itself irreparable harm throughout the world as it is caught in the act of telling falsehoods to the United States government in a matter involving the lives of seventeen American citizens and their anxious relatives.

Hint of Soviet Trickery

There is also a suggestion of Soviet trickery in the luring of the American plane across the border into Russia. The State Department's announcement last week about the Menshikov-Murphy conference of Nov. 13 was carefully worded on this point as follows:

"Mr. Murphy reviewed the facts in the case and informed the Ambassador that it appeared to the United States government that the American pilot, as a result of the signals transmitted by radio beacons in Soviet Georgia and Armenia, had probably made a navigational error which resulted in his unintentionally crossing the Soviet border."

This is a plain hint of Soviet mischief. On this phase of the tragedy, Moscow may soon have to explain some more transcripts and tape recordings.

POSITIVE PLAN FOR GERMANY

The United States need not and should not take any action with regard either to Berlin, to Germany or to Europe which represents a yielding of even the smallest order to Russian ultimatums, deadlines and similar forcing efforts, including the recent halting of a truck convoy at the East-West German border.

We know there is no genuine crisis in Berlin or Germany. There is only the artificial stir created by Moscow.

We have to consider, however, that aside from its usual purpose of trying to keep the West off balance, the Kremlin may by these maneuvers be attempting in its crude way to get at some sort of settlement of the German problem.

This possibility we cannot ignore, and the evidence is that we will not.

In the months ahead—perhaps most pointedly after the expiration of Russia's arrogantly proposed May 27 deadline for our departure from Berlin—we should be prepared for a full and fresh exploration of all issues pertaining to Germany and a larger European settlement.

Conferences among Western diplomats with that end in view are now being undertaken. They should be thorough and searching. The issues need new imagination, brighter invention than they have had in recent times.

Whatever we come up with, there can of course be no discussion or negotiation over Berlin alone. Even to entertain such talks would be to concede that our unchallenged right to be in Berlin is subject to negotiation, which it is not.

What we must indicate to the Russians is our awareness that in their savage manner, like a kid banging on a pan to get attention, they have asked for a new look at Germany and Europe. No narrower approach will do.

If they will talk on this basis, then we must seize the opportunity for presenting a broad, positive program for settlement which will pass the multiple tests of safeguarding Germany and the West, offering assurances of security from German attack to the Russians, and winning the general support of world opinion as a sound contribution to peace.

Germany is the key to Europe. We, not the Russians, must be the ones to turn it in the lock.

MORE AND MORE AGED

A Midwestern state legislator touched off a committee hassle the other day by proposing that employers be barred from rejecting job applicants on grounds of excessive age. Whatever one may think of such a proposal, the incident does point up a problem which deserves more attention than it has yet received.

This is the problem—actually, a complex of problems—occasioned by the rising percentage of the aged in our population. This increase in the proportionate number of older persons is no longer something to be thought about as a matter for future concern. "As modern medicine cuts back the accident or disease for older people," the National Planning Association said recently, "the problem of an ever-growing older population is becoming acute."

The problem has two basic aspects, and they are inter-related. The first of these is that many, perhaps a majority, of the aged have inadequate income or financial resources. An important factor in this is the reluctance of employers to take on or retain older workers. The second aspect is the special needs—in housing, medical care, ease of social contact with others, and so forth—that must be met if the aged are to have a satisfying life.

One important point to remember is that the very fact of U.S. prosperity aggravates the old age problem in this country. The United States, like other nations with well developed economies, has a higher proportion of aged persons than do the underdeveloped countries. Yet our wealth, which adds to the problem, also gives us the means to deal with it effectively and generously.

'These Days'

THE FIRST LINE

It is impossible to minimize the importance of education. Nevertheless, in this country there are too many parents and taxpayers who believe that they can afford bargain-counter and cut-rate education for their children. Dumb, ignorant, untrained people cannot and will not save this country in an era when chemistry, physics, meteorology, Geology, engineering of all kinds and similar techniques and disciplines are essential to our national existence.

As Admiral Hyman G. Rickover has repeated over and over again:

". . . We are only beginning to fully grasp the fact that education is our first line of defense which we neglect at our peril."

Here in New York, at the moment that I write this article, the night high schools have closed down because teachers refuse to work for inadequate pay. And anyone who employs any kind of workers here, from a receptionist and a typist up, knows that teachers are underpaid.

But it is not just a matter of money. Teachers must learn. A teacher who only teaches but does not learn is obsolescent in no time. Learning costs money and for a teacher that can mean books, magazines, travel, summer college and all sorts of devices for keeping up with the advances of knowledge which roll into the realm of learning like an avalanche. Boys and girls who read newspapers and magazines must not encounter a tired, weary, two job teacher who has not had the time to keep up-to-date and who is not, as the saying goes, one bone ahead of the pupil.

It is a perilous situation and, in the opinion of many educators, the basic trouble is inadequate payment of teachers for the type of work teachers have to do. To some tax-paying parents, ridden ragged by taxes which have become a horrifying item in every family's budget, it often seems that the schools could do with less money, never realizing that what is taken out of schools' budgets is usually taken out of teachers' salaries and that that cannot be done without the entire school system collapsing. Let the budget makers eliminate duplications, graft, useless jobs, dishonest relief, swindling contractors—but increase the pay of teachers. Parents whose families have grown up and are no longer at any school, sometimes forget how important the school can be to the community.

Admiral Rickover made another point which is extremely important:

". . . Knowledge increases so rapidly today that extreme specialization is inevitable. This could easily raise a barrier between the mass of the people on one side and numerous small groups of experts on the other; each little group of specialists seeking to silence public criticism on the grounds that the people are too ignorant to have a valid opinion. We ought not allow such undemocratic viewpoints to prevail. One does not have to be an expert himself to be able to judge whether the expert has done his job satisfactorily."

The real danger is not so much in the individual but in the various pressure groups which are organized for special purposes and seem often to outlive their usefulness but who nevertheless continue to labor not only to collect money but to seek to suppress conflicting points of view. They often use an argument similar to the "anti-party" condemnation of Soviet Russia. If one is not in style intellectually and spiritually, he is to be condemned. This persecution of the individual was very general at the height of the "New Deal," and subsequently Communists and others were brought before Congressional committees. The Left Wingers; having seen what Russian purges did, developed an hysteria which they called McCarthyism and which became a political issue in the United States.

Whenever differences and divergencies of opinion are suppressed, a nation dies, first spiritually and then physically. It fascinates me that Admiral Rickover, a scientist and a naval man, is devoting himself to arousing the country to the need for proper education. He, who developed the atomic submarine, has really rediscovered the first line of defense—it is the school house. And Americans would do well to follow his guidance. I used to talk about dedication, but it is asking too much of a young man who can work for a decent living in a laboratory, let us say, of a company working on space rockets, to teach under present conditions. His job can be dedication too.

No Room to Maneuver

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It's the same old hassle as every year—when the Department of Defense budget comes up.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff issue a statement that the budget is adequate and they fully support it, BUT—

What comes after the "but" is that each service chief thinks his Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Air Force should have a few billions more. That's the way it is now.

On Jan. 19, the day the President's budget message went to Congress, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy sent the JCS a memo for signature. It contained three main elements which boil down to this:

THE 1960 PROGRAM is adequate for U. S. defense.

The budget contains no gaps.

But some of the programs are not adequately funded.

All the chiefs signed like good boys. This was apparently intended to indicate to Congress and the American people that there is no need to increase the defense budget above President Eisenhower's 45 billion.

It may also have been expected to gag the chiefs and prevent them from asking Congress for more money.

As usual, it hasn't worked that way. It never does.

Ever since the JCS memo was signed, there has been one leak after another to increase service appropriations.

Part of this agitation comes from congressmen who have soft spots for a particular service—like the Marines.

Others are convinced that Department of Defense is concentrating on push-button general warfare, to the neglect of conventional small wars which are more likely.

STILL OTHERS believe the Eisenhower administration is too concerned with balancing the budget, not enough with providing for an all-out retaliatory attack against Russia.

Advocates of these policies drag from the chiefs—oh, so reluctantly—their modest requests for more billions.

Thus Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, expresses concern over the cut of his strategic army corps from four divisions to three. This is the force supposed to be ready for quick transport to any world trouble spot.

Another cause for Army complaint is lack of funds for replacement of obsolescent weapons. General Taylor has been recommending three billion dollars a year for five years. The new budget asks 1.2 billion for new weapons.

About [illegible] million dollars are allocated for Army's Nike Zeus antimissile missile research. The complaint is that this sum isn't enough for full speed development.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, complains that his budget request was cut 2½ billion dollars—from 14 to 11½. He implies this cut may mean spending more money later on to provide for replacement of obsolescent World War II vessels at a rate faster than 2 per cent a year.

hlbo

ON NAVY AIRCRAFT, Admiral Burke's complaint is that he will be given only enough money to replace planes worn out in service or lost in accidents—not enough to add to his aerial striking force.

Marine Commandant Gen. Randolph McC. Pate expresses usual dissatisfaction over reduction of his force.

The Air Force reservation of Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White is that if the missile strength called for in the new budget is sufficient only to knock out enemy cities—not enough to knock out enemy missile and bomber bases—then the United States cannot preclude attack.

The point made in all these dissenting opinions is that the long-range aspects of national defense are being shortchanged. The catch is that this is entirely consistent with the JCS signed statement that the defense budget now before Congress is adequate for U. S. security in 1960.

Moscow now claims that the tape recording issued by the State Department here last week is a "fake"—but that's nonsense, and the Soviets know it. Consider these facts:

1. The Soviet government was offered on last Nov. 13 a chance to listen to the tape recording, but Ambassador Menshikov here refused and finally accepted only a typewritten copy of the transcript of the conversation between the Soviet flyers telling how they were in the act of shooting down an American transport plane near the Turkish border. Why didn't the Soviets call it a "fake" before? They had three months to say so publicly—or privately—to the American government.

Authenticity Checked

2. The officials of the United States government and their intelligence staffs knew full well that the question of authenticity might be raised, and so they checked and double checked every angle. Also, the American plane was in communication with Western ground stations just a few minutes before the attack. The time and approximate location were established beforehand beyond question.

3. There is a monitoring system set up by the United States and its allies close to the Soviet border of Turkey and other Middle Eastern boundaries, as well as in Western Europe and Canada. This vast electronic apparatus requires a big staff. Persons familiar with the Soviet languages monitor these listening posts along the Russian border, but highly trained American officers on the spot supervise the work as a part of the United States Air Force defense system.

Transcripts Made Daily

4. Authentic transcripts of the chatter that goes on between Soviet airplanes are recorded daily—sometimes simultaneously from three or four different monitoring points. These are constantly checked against one another. The transcript of the episode which cost seventeen American airmen their lives as the Soviet patrols shot down the unarmed transport plane was checked and double checked most carefully before being formally presented to the Soviet government last November. It was recorded by the same personnel whose recordings have been continuously checked—and proved—in the past as authentic.

5. The Soviet newspapers, by government direction, now criticize certain words in the translation issued by the State Department here. It is true that some Russian words could be translated in various ways, such as "you boys" or "you fellows" or "you comrades." It's hard, sometimes, to translate the vernacular or idiomatic phrases. But if anyone has any doubts about the exact meaning of the original Russian script, let him listen to it. When Under Secretary of State Robert Murphy invited Ambassador Menshikov in Washington to listen to the tape recording and he refused, the same offer was made to the Russian Embassy's air attache but this also was declined.

Tape to Be Broadcast

6. Portions of the tape now have been played on the radio in this country in Russian, and will be repeated in international broadcasting so that anyone who understands the Russian language can make his own translation and decide for himself whether the basic facts of the transcript as issued by the Department of State are in accord with what the voices on the tape itself say.

Officials here are astounded at the flatness of the Russian denial of the authenticity of the tape recording, and the only way they can figure it out at all is to assume that the Soviets, once having taken a position of complete innocence, do not dare now to change their minds. All the American airmen presumably are dead—so the Russians think the issue cannot ever be resolved.

Lies Seen Hurting Reds

The Soviets could have contended that the attack on the American plane was not ordered by Moscow—for, obviously, there wasn't time to get such orders to their own planes—and that the Soviet patrol mistakenly acted on general orders to shoot down what it might have thought to be armed planes. This could have explained what happened, but it cannot now explain the reason for the lying.

For the Soviet government has done itself irreparable harm throughout the world as it is caught in the act of telling falsehoods to the United States government in a matter involving the lives of seventeen American citizens and their anxious relatives.

Hint of Soviet Trickery

There is also a suggestion of Soviet trickery in the luring of the American plane across the border into Russia. The State Department's announcement last week about the Menshikov-Murphy conference of Nov. 13 was carefully worded on this point as follows:

"Mr. Murphy reviewed the facts in the case and informed the Ambassador that it appeared to the United States government that the American pilot, as a result of the signals transmitted by radio beacons in Soviet Georgia and Armenia, had probably made a navigational error which resulted in his unintentionally crossing the Soviet border."

This is a plain hint of Soviet mischief. On this phase of the tragedy, Moscow may soon have to explain some more transcripts and tape recordings.

Brandt to Meet State Department Officials Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt, determined his city will never become part of Soviet-ruled territory meets today with State Department officials.

The visiting mayor also is scheduled to lunch with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Brandt, who arrived Saturday for a round of official talks, spoke Sunday to a meeting of the local chapter of the Socialist party-Social Democratic Federation — a Democratic party in Berlin.

counterpart of his own Social

Speaking of the East-West crisis over Berlin, he said the divided city "is a symptom and not the reason of this crisis."

Brandt said, "We in Berlin have to face more difficulties, with a very limited possibility to influence events." He urged Western unity in dealing with the Soviets and said no durable solution can be based on capitulation.

Former Chief Is DemandingParley On Reinstatement

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—A former deputy police chief who resigned nearly a year ago while under questioning by a state investigator today demanded a reinstatement hearing.

Vincent D. Fiore, a veteran of 29 years on the police force, said he had petitioned Public Safety Commissioner Boyd E. Golder for the hearing.

Fiore said he had until Wednesday before losing his petition rights.

The former police official resigned Feb. 11, 1958 while being quizzed by Arthur L. Reuter, then state investigation commissioner.

Reuter was proving vice, crime and corruption in Utica and Oneida County.

Fiore said the resignation "was procured under duress, fraud, misrepresentation, deception and mistake of facts."

Adopt 2 Memorial Resolutions

Union, Brick Manufacturers Praise Ausanio Leadership

Two memorial resolutions lauding the late Dominic Ausanio were adopted at the annual meeting of officers and shop stewards of Bricklayers Union, Local 1467, ILA-IND, Sunday at the Cloverleaf Inn.

Ausanio was union president when he died unexpectedly on Nov. 11, 1958, having served several terms.

A resolution (from) the Brick Manufacturers Association of New York said its members "have most highly respected him (Ausanio) for his sincere devotion to the betterment of our industry" and "he had established himself firmly in the affection and good fellowship of all of us." The resolution was signed by Allan Platt, executive secretary.

The Brickhandlers Union's own resolution said of its late president:

"His devotion to the advancement of his fellow working men and the betterment of the industry is a saga written indelibly in the minds of all of us and recorded in the archives of both union and management.

Distinguished Service

"His early qualities did not go unnoticed and this mature young man answered our call for duty as president and served with distinction for several terms."

Guest speakers included Prof. Louis Salkever, head of the economics department at New Paltz State Teachers College and Charles J. Tiano, president of the Kingston Newspaper Guild and Empire State District Council of the American Newspaper Guild.

Prof. Salkever, who is on the staff of the American Arbitration Association and is widely known in the woolen industry, spoke on seniority in labor contracts.

Seniority clauses developed originally as defensive measures designed to protect the jobs of older employes in case of layoffs and cutbacks, Salkever said.

In recent years, however, the complexities of industry created by automation have forced unions to re-evaluate such clauses. Stricter job classification has been one result and a variation of interpretation has developed.

Makes Strong Plea

The New Paltz professor made a strong plea for unlimited unemployment compensation, asserting that "no man who earns a respectable wage will trade it for the present unemployment rates over an extended period." He also noted that some craft unions are winning discharge pay comparable to the so-called severance pay of white collar unions, notably the newspaper profession. It is known as technological displacement pay.

Tiano spoke on labor and the 83rd Congress and labor and the American press. The Guild president said it was unlikely there would be any positive labor legislation this year. The bills proposed by Sen. Kennedy (Dem.) of Massachusetts and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell are wide apart on vital issues and neither has a good chance to get Congressional approval.

1960 Influence

The labor picture in Congress is further complicated by the presidential aspirations of both Kennedy and Mitchell, Tiano said. Neither wishes to offend the huge labor bloc, but in their present form it is highly improbable that either bill would gain the support of both organized labor and the administration.

Specifically, the Mitchell bill seeks to strengthen the Taft-Hartley bill's clauses, proposes the elimination of the secondary boycott and seeks to abolish certain types of picketing. The Kennedy bill, favored by labor, proposes several changes in the T-H bill which are not likely to appeal to the administration.

With respect to labor and the American press, Tiano said that universal hostility of the 19th century press toward labor unions has been replaced by a more enlightened attitude of the twentieth century.

Capt. William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, who was scheduled to be a speaker, could not attend because of illness.

Unemployment Is

ing. Employers normally don't increase their work force very fast in a recovery period. They cautiously increase working hours of workers already employed, working them even overtime hours at premium rates rather than hire new workers.

As of now about one out of every 17 able-bodied workers wanting a job can't find one. Similarly, one of eight single workers is unemployed. Among married workers the idle ratio is one out of 20.

Worker earnings, like prices, are at record levels. This means that those workers that have jobs are doing all right, many of them enjoying big chunks of extra, premium overtime pay.

$300,000 Fire Wrecks Upstate Feed Mill

HOMER, N. Y. (AP) — A fire early Sunday wrecked a feed mill here, causing an estimated $300,000 damage.

Fire Chief Art Ritter, who estimated the damage, said the flames hurtled through the Homer Jones feed mill with a swiftness that made it impossible to salvage any of the feed, machinery or farm supplies.

Six communities, he said, sent equipment to the scene and 200 men fought the flames.

The fire, Ritter said, was discovered at 4:10 a. m. and was not brought under control until almost noon.

The cause was not determined.

Companies from Cortland, Virgil, Preble, Tully, Truxton and McGraw assisted the Homer crew.

Reynolds Metals Seeks New Stock For Financing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Stockholders of Reynolds Metals Co. will be asked here today to authorize the issuance of one million shares of a new, second preferred stock to help finance the purchase of shares in British Aluminum Co., Ltd.

The company also will ask for stockholder approval of the issuance of one million additional shares of common stock.

Reynolds told the Seucirities and Exchange Commission last month it wished to make a public offering of 550,000 shares of the new, $100-a-share second preferred stock. It said proceeds of the preferred stock issue would be used to reimburse the company treasury for the cost of stock in British Aluminum already acquired and any bought subsequently.

Reynolds Metals and Tube Investments, Lt., of Great Britain announced early in January they had jointly acquired about 80 per cent of British Aluminium's nine million outstanding ordinary shares.

British Aluminium is Great Britain's sole aluminum producer.

Jukebox Inquiry To Hear 4 Who Were at Apalachin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four men who attended the famous Apalachin, N. Y., gathering of hoodlums will be among the witnesses at a Senate rackets inquiry that begins Tuesday.

The committee is looking into reported underworld infiltration of the jukebox-coin machine industry.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the committee, said Saturday that among the 100 subpoenaed witnesses are Girardo Catena of South Orange, N. J.; Mike Genovese of Gibsonia, Pa.; Frank Zito of Springfield, Ill., and James Colletti of Pueblo, Colo.

Kennedy said all are coin machine operators in their respective states.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) predicts the hearings will show a combine of big shot racketeers and corrupt labor union officials taking over the industry state by state.

fighters. Normally, a wing consists of three squadrons of planes.

In missiles, the squadron designation is generally used. A ballistic missile squadron will range from 10 weapons for an intercontinental ballistic missile—ICBM—outfit to 15 for an intermediate range ballistic missile — IRBM — squadron.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said last month that the Strategic Air Command will include 14 wings of B52 heavy jet bombers—two more than had been shown under previously announced plans.

The cutback in wing strength toward an eventual level of fewer than 90 will be brought about, in part, by the gradual elimination of the B47 medium jet from SAC's fleet of strategic bombers.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Union College is making a $50 increase in its tuition—to $1,050 for liberal arts students and $1,150 for engineers.

The additional money will be used primarily to increase faculty salaries, the college said Sunday.

Union increased its rates by $100 last year.

Only Two Raises

(3) The water board in a period of over 30 years has increased the water rates only twice, amounting to a total increase of approximately 66 per cent. How does this compare with the record of the Common Council? The general tax rate of the City of Kingston, the adoption of which is the responsibility of the Common Council, has been increased to the extent that in the short period of 10 years, we are paying approximately 200 per cent more in city taxes than we did in 1949. If this sounds unbelievable consult your 1949 general city tax bill and compare it with your 1959 bill you will receive in a couple of weeks.

Let us examine the causes and the responsibility for the present situation in the Water Department.

In January 1948, the Mayor observed that the water department had a surplus. He recommended to the common council that $60,000 of that surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The necessary resolution was passed by the Common Council. The transfer was reluctantly made by the man then president of the Water Board, who believed that this action would eventually effect the operation of the water department.

President Reluctant

In January 1949, the mayor again observed that the water department had a surplus, he recommended that $35,000 of this surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The Common Council again passed the necessary resolution. The transfer again was reluctantly made by the president of the Water Board.

This is a total of $95,000 that the Common Council has taken from the Water Board in the past and used for purposes for which the Mayor and the Common Council should have made provisions in the annual budget of the city. Why is it any wonder then that the Water Department now finds itself in an untenable financial situation? Who is to blame if not the Common Council—at least in part? Why then, should this same governmental unit the Common Council, object so strongly to a move by the Water Department made necessary to correct a situation at least partially caused by the Common Council.

Radel Voted Transfer

In May 1952, the Mayor once again noted that the water department had a surplus and recommended that $50,000 of this surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The Common Council passed the necessary resolution, the present Mayor, then an alderman, voted in favor of this action.

When this last request was made, I was a member of the water board and I presented to that board a resolution which was passed, directing that the president and the secretary withhold signing any check transfering $50,000 from the water board account to the general city government account until such time as the legality of the action of the Mayor and the Common Council authorizing the transfer of this money could be determined. This third attempt to transfer money from the water department was never made. Had it been the situation in the water department would be much worse than it is.

Kingston has been fortunate in having outstanding citizens serve as members of the Water Board throughout the years. They serve without pay or glory and devote a great deal of time to their job. But as the city grows steps had to be taken to control the wasting of water, so that we, the users, might never be without sufficient water for our needs.

As a former president of the water board and as a former president of the Common Council I think I can say that I am fully aware of the facts in this case and I believe that the members of the Water Board are being criticized unjustly and that this criticism is being leveled at them solely for selfish political motives of those who find it so easy to criticize.

Sign Says Safe Open, Intruder Locks It

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., (AP) —"Are you Louis Goltz of Pfeifer's?" a male telephoner asked Sunday night.

"Yes," Goltz said.

"Well, your store was robbed Saturday night," the caller said, and hung up.

Goltz, manager of Pfeifer's Men's Store, went to the store. It had been broken into through a window.

Goltz said he was unable to determine immediately if anything had been taken.

Surely no money could have been taken—Goltz said cash was not kept in the store overnight. The safe had lettered across its face:

"This safe is not locked."

Below it was written: "It is now."

The intruders had locked it.

Levitt May Be

1 and addition of three brackets at the top of the scale.

Third Proposal Hit Hard

The third—the proposal to cut exemptions—has drawn heavy fire from Democrats, taxpayer groups, organized labor and, privately, from dissident Republicans in the Legislature.

While Rockefeller has estimated the total gain from these changes, he has not said how much he expects to realize from each. The budget division turns aside all queries.

Levitt gave these "minimum" and "probable" yields from each change:

Cut in exemptions, 80 million and 90 million; new brackets, 60 million and 62 million; withholding, 20 million and 35 million.

In addition, he estimated that, because of natural economic growth and steadily rising incomes, the income tax would yield an additional 70 million dollars this year.

With a minimum yield of 230 million dollars, Levitt said, Rockefeller could abandon the proposed lowering of exemptions (80 million) and still achieve his 150-million goal.

Rockefeller had proposed a uniform $600 exemption per person. Current exemptions are $1,000 for a single taxpayer, $2,500 for a married couple and $400 for each dependent.

Levitt said his estimates were prepared "by standard methods." Even the high figures—the probable yield—were "conservative," he asserted.

He challenged Rockefeller to disprove his findings.

Probe Instrument Panel of Plane In River Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — The instrument panel of the American Airlines plane which crashed into the East River came under close scrutiny again today by investigators seeking some definite clue to the cause of the crash.

The nose section and cockpit of the plane were recovered Saturday night. A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman said the whole cockpit was in excellent shape. He said a clock on the panel was still running when it was pulled from the water.

The plane plunged into the water Tuesday night with the loss of 65 lives as it approached La Guardia Field. There were only eight survivors.

The retrieved cockpit yielded the body of the veteran pilot, Capt. Alfred De Witt, 59, of Decatur, Mich.

Three more bodies were recovered Sunday. They were identified as Dr. Robert Emerson, 55, of Urbana, Ill., research professor of botany at the University of Illinois; Benjamin Weinstein, of Great Neck, N.Y., president of the Judd Valve Co., of Long Island City, Queens, and Robert David Willemin, 33, of La Grange, Ill., a department manager for the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith.

The bodies of 32 victims are still missing.

Brandt to Meet State Department Officials Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt, determined his city will never become part of Soviet-ruled territory meets today with State Department officials.

The visiting mayor also is scheduled to lunch with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Brandt, who arrived Saturday for a round of official talks, spoke Sunday to a meeting of the local chapter of the Socialist party-Social Democratic Federation — a Democratic party in Berlin.

counterpart of his own Social

Speaking of the East-West crisis over Berlin, he said the divided city "is a symptom and not the reason of this crisis."

Brandt said, "We in Berlin have to face more difficulties, with a very limited possibility to influence events." He urged Western unity in dealing with the Soviets and said no durable solution can be based on capitulation.

Former Chief Is Demanding Parley On Reinstatement

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—A former deputy police chief who resigned nearly a year ago while under questioning by a state investigator today demanded a reinstatement hearing.

Vincent D. Fiore, a veteran of 29 years on the police force, said he had petitioned Public Safety Commissioner Boyd E. Golder for the hearing.

Fiore said he had until Wednesday before losing his petition rights.

The former police official resigned Feb. 11, 1958 while being quizzed by Arthur L. Reuter, then state investigation commissioner.

Reuter was proving vice, crime and corruption in Utica and Oneida County.

Fiore said the resignation "was procured under duress, fraud, misrepresentation, deception and mistake of facts."

Adopt 2 Memorial Resolutions

Union, Brick Manufacturers Praise Ausanio Leadership

Two memorial resolutions lauding the late Dominic Ausanio were adopted at the annual meeting of officers and shop stewards of Bricklayers Union, Local 1467, ILA-IND, Sunday at the Cloverleaf Inn.

Ausanio was union president when he died unexpectedly on Nov. 11, 1958, having served several terms.

A resolution (from) the Brick Manufacturers Association of New York said its members "have most highly respected him (Ausanio) for his sincere devotion to the betterment of our industry" and "he had established himself firmly in the affection and good fellowship of all of us." The resolution was signed by Allan Platt, executive secretary.

The Brickhandlers Union's own resolution said of its late president:

"His devotion to the advancement of his fellow working men and the betterment of the industry is a saga written indelibly in the minds of all of us and recorded in the archives of both union and management.

Distinguished Service

"His early qualities did not go unnoticed and this mature young man answered our call for duty as president and served with distinction for several terms."

Guest speakers included Prof. Louis Salkever, head of the economics department at New Paltz State Teachers College and Charles J. Tiano, president of the Kingston Newspaper Guild and Empire State District Council of the American Newspaper Guild.

Prof. Salkever, who is on the staff of the American Arbitration Association and is widely known in the woolen industry, spoke on seniority in labor contracts.

Seniority clauses developed originally as defensive measures designed to protect the jobs of older employes in case of layoffs and cutbacks, Salkever said.

In recent years, however, the complexities of industry created by automation have forced unions to re-evaluate such clauses. Stricter job classification has been one result and a variation of interpretation has developed.

Makes Strong Plea

The New Paltz professor made a strong plea for unlimited unemployment compensation, asserting that "no man who earns a respectable wage will trade it for the present unemployment rates over an extended period." He also noted that some craft unions are winning discharge pay comparable to the so-called severance pay of white collar unions, notably the newspaper profession. It is known as technological displacement pay.

Tiano spoke on labor and the 83rd Congress and labor and the American press. The Guild president said it was unlikely there would be any positive labor legislation this year. The bills proposed by Sen. Kennedy (Dem.) of Massachusetts and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell are wide apart on vital issues and neither has a good chance to get Congressional approval.

1960 Influence

The labor picture in Congress is further complicated by the presidential aspirations of both Kennedy and Mitchell, Tiano said. Neither wishes to offend the huge labor bloc, but in their present form it is highly improbable that either bill would gain the support of both organized labor and the admihistration.

Specifically, the Mitchell bill seeks to strengthen the Taft-Hartley bill's clauses, proposes the elimination of the secondary boycott and seeks to abolish certain types of picketing. The Kennedy bill, favored by labor, proposes several changes in the T-H bill which are not likely to appeal to the administration.

With respect to labor and the American press, Tiano said that universal hostility of the 19th century press toward labor unions has been replaced by a more enlightened attitude of the twentieth century.

Capt. William V. Bradley, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, who was scheduled to be a speaker, could not attend because of illness.

Unemployment Is

ing. Employers normally don't increase their work force very fast in a recovery period. They cautiously increase working hours of workers already employed, working them even overtime hours at premium rates rather than hire new workers.

As of now about one out of every 17 able-bodied workers wanting a job can't find one. Similarly, one of eight single workers is unemployed. Among married workers the idle ratio is one out of 20.

Worker earnings, like prices, are at record levels. This means that those workers that have jobs are doing all right, many of them enjoying big chunks of extra, premium overtime pay.

$300,000 Fire Wrecks Upstate Feed Mill

HOMER, N. Y. (AP) — A fire early Sunday wrecked a feed mill here, causing an estimated $300,000 damage.

Fire Chief Art Ritter, who estimated the damage, said the flames hurtled through the Homer Jones feed mill with a swiftness that made it impossible to salvage any of the feed, machinery or farm supplies.

Six communities, he said, sent equipment to the scene and 200 men fought the flames.

The fire, Ritter said, was discovered at 4:10 a. m. and was not brought under control until almost noon.

The cause was not determined.

Companies from Cortland, Virgil, Preble, Tully, Truxton and McGraw assisted the Homer crew.

Reynolds Metals Seeks New Stock For Financing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Stockholders of Reynolds Metals Co. will be asked here today to authorize the issuance of one million shares of a new, second preferred stock to help finance the purchase of shares in British Aluminum Co., Ltd.

The company also will ask for stockholder approval of the issuance of one million additional shares of common stock.

Reynolds told the Seucirities and Exchange Commission last month it wished to make a public offering of 550,000 shares of the new, $100-a-share second preferred stock. It said proceeds of the preferred stock issue would be used to reimburse the company treasury for the cost of stock in British Aluminum already acquired and any bought subsequently.

Reynolds Metals and Tube Investments, Lt., of Great Britain announced early in January they had jointly acquired about 80 per cent of British Aluminium's nine million outstanding ordinary shares.

British Aluminium is Great Britain's sole aluminum producer.

Jukebox Inquiry To Hear 4 Who Were at Apalachin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four men who attended the famous Apalachin, N. Y., gathering of hoodlums will be among the witnesses at a Senate rackets inquiry that begins Tuesday.

The committee is looking into reported underworld infiltration of the jukebox-coin machine industry.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the committee, said Saturday that among the 100 subpoenaed witnesses are Girardo Catena of South Orange, N. J.; Mike Genovese of Gibsonia, Pa.; Frank Zito of Springfield, Ill., and James Colletti of Pueblo, Colo.

Kennedy said all are coin machine operators in their respective states.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) predicts the hearings will show a combine of big shot racketeers and corrupt labor union officials taking over the industry state by state.

fighters. Normally, a wing consists of three squadrons of planes.

In missiles, the squadron designation is generally used. A ballistic missile squadron will range from 10 weapons for an intercontinental ballistic missile—ICBM—outfit to 15 for an intermediate range ballistic missile — IRBM — squadron.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said last month that the Strategic Air Command will include 14 wings of B52 heavy jet bombers—two more than had been shown under previously announced plans.

The cutback in wing strength toward an eventual level of fewer than 90 will be brought about, in part, by the gradual elimination of the B47 medium jet from SAC's fleet of strategic bombers.

Union Tuition Increased

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP)—Union College is making a $50 increase in its tuition—to $1,050 for liberal arts students and $1,150 for engineers.

The additional money will be used primarily to increase faculty salaries, the college said Sunday.

Union increased its rates by $100 last year.

Only Two Raises

(3) The water board in a period of over 30 years has increased the water rates only twice, amounting to a total increase of approximately 66 per cent. How does this compare with the record of the Common Council? The general tax rate of the City of Kingston, the adoption of which is the responsibility of the Common Council, has been increased to the extent that in the short period of 10 years, we are paying approximately 200 per cent more in city taxes than we did in 1949. If this sounds unbelievable consult your 1949 general city tax bill and compare it with your 1959 bill you will receive in a couple of weeks.

Let us examine the causes and the resporsibility for the present situation in the Water Department.

In January 1948, the Mayor observed that the water department had a surplus. He recommended to the common council that $60,000 of that surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The necessary resolution was passed by the Common Council. The transfer was reluctantly made by the man then president of the Water Board, who believed that this action would eventually effect the operation of the water department.

President Reluctant

In January 1949, the mayor again observed that the water department had a surplus, he recommended that $35,000 of this surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The Common Council again passed the necessary resolution. The transfer again was reluctantly made by the president of the Water Board.

This is a total of $95,000 that the Common Council has taken from the Water Board in the past and used for purposes for which the Mayor and the Common Council should have made provisions in the annual budget of the city. Why is it any wonder then that the Water Department now finds itself in an untenable financial situation? Who is to blame if not the Common Council—at least in part? Why then, should this same governmental unit the Common Council, object so strongly to a move by the Water Department made necessary to correct a situation at least partially caused by the Common Council.

Radel Voted Transfer

In May 1952, the Mayor once again noted that the water department had a surplus and recommended that $50,000 of this surplus be transferred to the Board of Public Works. The Common Council passed the necessary resolution, the present Mayor, then an alderman, voted in favor of this action.

When this last request was made, I was a member of the water board and I presented to that board a resolution which was passed, directing that the president and the secretary withhold signing any check transfering $50,000 from the water board account to the general city government account until such time as the legallity of the action of the Mayor and the Common Council authorizing the transfer of this money could be determined. This third attempt to transfer money from the water department was never made. Had it been the situation in the water department would be much worse than it is.

Kingston has been fortunate in having outstanding citizens serve as members of the Water Board throughout the years. They serve without pay or glory and devote a great deal of time to their job. But as the city grows steps had to be taken to control the wasting of water, so that we, the users, might never be without sufficient water for our needs.

As a former president of the water board and as a former president of the Common Council I think I can say that I am fully aware of the facts in this case and I believe that the members of the Water Board are being criticized unjustly and that this criticism is being leveled at them solely for selfish political motives of those who find it so easy to criticize.

Special Election

NEW YORK (AP) — A special election will be held Feb. 17 in Brooklyn to fill the 4th Assembly District seat of Bernard Austin, who died last month.

Sign Says Safe Open, Intruder Locks It

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., (AP) —"Are you Louis Goltz of Pfeifer's?" a male telephoner asked Sunday night.

"Yes," Goltz said.

"Well, your store was robbed Saturday night," the caller said, and hung up.

Goltz, manager of Pfeifer's Men's Store, went to the store. It had been broken into through a window.

Goltz said he was unable to determine immediately if anything had been taken.

Surely no money could have been taken—Goltz said cash was not kept in the store overnight. The safe had lettered across its face:

"This safe is not locked."

Below it was written: "It is now."

The intruders had locked it.

Levitt May Be

1 and addition of three brackets at the top of the scale.

Third Proposal Hit Hard

The third—the proposal to cut exemptions—has drawn heavy fire from Democrats, taxpayer groups, organized labor and, privately, from dissident Republicans in the Legislature.

While Rockefeller has estimated the total gain from these changes, he has not said how much he expects to realize from each. The budget division turns aside all queries.

Levitt gave these "minimum" and "probable" yields from each change:

Cut in exemptions, 80 million and 90 million; new brackets, 60 million and 62 million; withholding, 20 million and 35 million.

In addition, he estimated that, because of natural economic growth and steadily rising incomes, the income tax would yield an additional 70 million dollars this year.

With a minimum yield of 230 million dollars, Levitt said, Rockefeller could abandon the proposed lowering of exemptions (80 million) and still achieve his 150-million goal.

Rockefeller had proposed a uniform $600 exemption per person. Current exemptions are $1,000 for a single taxpayer, $2,500 for a married couple and $400 for each dependent.

Levitt said his estimates were prepared "by standard methods." Even the high figures—the probable yield—were "conservative," he asserted.

He challenged Rockefeller to disprove his findings.

Probe Instrument Panel of Plane In River Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — The instrument panel of the American Airlines plane which crashed into the East River came under close scrutiny again today by investigators seeking some definite clue to the cause of the crash.

The nose section and cockpit of the plane were recovered Saturday night. A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman said the whole cockpit was in excellent shape. He said a clock on the panel was still running when it was pulled from the water.

The plane plunged into the water Tuesday night with the loss of 65 lives as it approached La Guardia Field. There were only eight survivors.

The retrieved cockpit yielded the body of the veteran pilot, Capt. Alfred De Witt, 59, of Decatur, Mich.

Three more bodies were recovered Sunday. They were identified as Dr. Robert Emerson, 55, of Urbana, Ill., research professor of botany at the University of Illinois; Benjamin Weinstein, of Great Neck, N.Y., president of the Judd Valve Co., of Long Island City, Queens, and Robert David Willemin, 33, of La Grange, Ill., a department manager for the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith.

The bodies of 32 victims are still missing.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Looking through the Kingston City Directory of 1899, I notice a great many people were employed in cigar factories. They also had brush factory, box factory, bronze factory, knitting mills and others. Charles Zimmerman was proprietor of a box factory at 75 Furnace Street and lived at 95 Clinton Avenue. I see Augustus Yost Sr. of 97 Hunter Street was a cooper, but they do not give the name or address of the factory. I notice when anyone was employed on the Mary Powell, they did not say, boatman, but "emp. Mary Powell." James Wynn of 124 Hasbrouck Avenue worked on the Mary Powell at the time. I know to this time, anyone who had any connection with the Mary Powell are very proud of it, because the Captains Anderson had the choice of men and women for their popular boat. Folks still ask for pictures of the Mary Powell, yet she made her last trip on Sept. 10, 1917. She was dismantled in 1922.

I see John E. and Louis Woolsey of 409 Washington Avenue were employed at Peckham's Motor Truck and Wheel Company, 22 Ferry Street. We had all sorts of factories here in 1899, some 60 years ago. For instance, the Misses Mamie and Mary Woods of 101 Pine Grove Avenue worked at the tin foil factory. It is listed under tin foil and bottle caps under the name the The Palen Company, Pine Grove Avenue. There was the famous Dr. Kennedy Corp. which was a million dollar enterprise. I see J. F. Woods of 12 Meadow Street, worked there. Dr. David Kennedy Corp. at 34 Ferry Street made patent medicines. Henry Singer told me, as a school boy he used to work there after school, I think putting labels on bottles.

Silas Keyser of 399 Washington Avenue was a carriage and sign painter, who no doubt did that dainty gold-leaf lines and scrolls and red and gold lettering we now admire on antique carriages. I see George Kieffer was employed in a glass factory. He lived on Stephen Street. The Kingston Glass Works were on South Wall Street. There was also a glove manufacturer at South Wilbur Avenue, run by Edward Bewer. I see also a Kingston Glass Manufacturing Company, M. E. Deyo, superintendent, on Fair Street. Perhaps it was the same plant. A Kingston mattress factory was at 54 Hasbrouck Avenue.

Of course the famous old Kingston Opera House was at corner Fair and John Streets, where you could see "live" soap operas. They also had a Kingston Premium Stamp Company, 19 North Front Street, so no doubt the ladies were busy collecting stamps in those days also. Charles Kniffin was a glass blower and lived at 101 Wall Sfreet. C. H. Knight worked in the tin foil factory and lived at 67 Crane Street.

Robert Kilpatrick worked in the bronze factory and lived at 53 Franklin Street. George Kiefer who lived on Stephan Street, worked in the glass factory also. Jerry Kelly was a lineman with the Hudson River Telephone Company back in 1899. He lived at 253 East Strand. Fred Kelcey was superintendent of the Cigar Factory and lived at 78 Maiden Lane. John L. Jones was a stone cutter and lived at 114 St. James Street. Richard Johnston was a millwright and lived on Chapel Street. Charles D. W. Johnston was first mate on the steamer, Romer, and lived at 768 Broadway. A. E. Anderson was captain of the Mary Powell and lived at 34 Stuyvesant Street. Let no one think that Kingston was not a lively and enterprising city some 60 years ago.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME (Registered U. S. Patent Office) By JIMMY HATLO

Bluff and Buster

By FRANK TRIPP

A reader inquires why the United States cannot keep its nose out of other countries' affairs. The answers could fill a library, start a new political party, perhaps a revolution.

The reader, too timid to sign his name, very likely reflects the thoughts of many people who think that "defense" has lost its meaning and view our fidgety approach to it as "aggression." In doing this they unconsciously join our enemies.

Nevertheless the fellow, I assume it's a fellow, asks some pertinent and disturbing questions, such as: "When we are broke, as a country and a people, how can we defend ourselves?"

He's looking at our "fabulous expenditures, our devastating taxes, our softening people living it up and falling into a trap of bloodless revolution that will destroy our economy and way of life."

HE SAYS, "We are on a binge of self indulgence; craving the moon and gambling our earth against God's laws, for the glory of science. We are asserting supremacy over all mankind; the most hated nation in the world." The news has told us that.

"Let Russia have the moon; let's keep a few bucks, a few secrets and tricks, do a little bluffing ourselves, mind our own business—and tell 'em 'come and get us'," he says.

He cites the Monroe Doctrine that said as much 136 years ago, and, although never enacted into policy by Congress, created the "era of good feeling," the country's period of greatest progress up to that time.

These thoughts are hard to laugh off with the smug conclusion that "times have changed." Because human nature hasn't changed that much. World greed, jealousy and bombast still smack of Nero and Rome; of the middle ages.

A CHAMPION must stay in condition and keep in training if he would retain his title. He must have prestige that awes weaklings; strength that commands the respect of contenders.

And hidden weakness that deceives bullies. The English language has accepted a crude word for it—bluff!

Somehow, because it's euphonious perhaps, "bluff" lost its true meaning in the phrase "bluff and bluster." Nothing will reveal a bluff more than bluster. Americans are history's worst poker players. We expose our hand at the deal of the first card.

FOR CENTURIES the British Empire got away with it. Until world communication and space elimination exposed the bluff that kept the rest of the world out of the Lion's hair. Johnny Bull"s own colonies "called the bluff."

The modern world began to change when peoples learned each other's weaknesses. Ours is bluster, bombast, wealth, luxury, ease and complacency which have generated the "cold war."

A Disraeli or a Bismarck could have done no better than Dulles, with all of the cards face up on the table.

COUNTLESS Americans will go along with the anonymous reader when he asks, in effect, how we will defend ourselves when we have been faxed into penury for giveaways, moon shots, government extravagance, ease, luxury and a national softness that will make us a pushover for those who covet the resources we are living up and squandering in one generation.

We are expending our greatest weapon, the most potent defense of our freedom, most feared by our enemies—our national and individual solvency, our durability and capacity to stay it out; even the stamina of our people. The surest way to lose a cold war.

Exactly as communism planned it.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Looking through the Kingston City Directory of 1899, I notice a great many people were employed in cigar factories. They also had brush factory, box factory, bronze factory, knitting mills and others. Charles Zimmerman was proprietor of a box factory at 75 Furnace Street and lived at 95 Clinton Avenue. I see Augustus Yost Sr. of 97 Hunter Street was a cooper, but they do not give the name or address of the factory. I notice when anyone was employed on the Mary Powell, they did not say, boatman, but "emp. Mary Powell." James Wynn of 124 Hasbrouck Avenue worked on the Mary Powell at the time. I know to this time, anyone who had any connection with the Mary Powell are very proud of it, because the Captains Anderson had the choice of men and women for their popular boat. Folks still ask for pictures of the Mary Powell, yet she made her last trip on Sept. 10, 1917. She was dismantled in 1922.

I see John E. and Louis Woolsey of 409 Washington Avenue were employed at Peckham's Motor Truck and Wheel Company, 22 Ferry Street. We had all sorts of factories here in 1899, some 60 years ago. For instance, the Misses Mamie and Mary Woods of 101 Pine Grove Avenue worked at the tin foil factory. It is listed under tin foil and bottle caps under the name the The Palen Company, Pine Grove Avenue. There was the famous Dr. Kennedy Corp. which was a million dollar enterprise. I see J. F. "I came as the bell of the ball!"

State Business Activity Termed Less Than Normal

ALBANY—Business activity in New York State showed a less than normal seasonal increase during December as a result of heavier than usual layoffs in manufacturing industries, the State Department of Commerce reported today.

The seasonally adjusted index of business activity for New York State (1947-49 equals 100) was 131. While this represented a drop from the November index of 132, it was still three points higher than in December 1957.

No Seasonal Lift

The department's report on the current business situation indicated that while December business did not show the usual seasonal improvement normal for December, the total output of goods and services during the month was equal to that of the peak December of 1956.

Total nonagricultural employment in the state improved in December as retail trade hiring sparked the usual Christmas season pickup. The total of 6,111,000 at work during the month represented an increase of 14,000 from November. This was 165,500 lower than in December 1957 and 196,000 lower than in December 1956.

The seasonally adjusted index of factory output showed a drop of three points from November to 122 in December. This was eight points below the index for December 1956. At the same time, factory employment fell to the lowest December total since 1947. At 1,750,000, December factory jobs were 102,400 fewer than in December 1957 and 227,300 fewer than in December 1956. Durable goods industries added 300 workers to their payrolls during the month, but seasonal layoffs in nondurables totaled 40,100.

418,000 Filed

Insured unemployment, the department noted, increased seasonally in January. In the week ended January 23, 1959, some 418,000 applicants filed for benefits under the regular New York State program. In the corresponding week of 1958 there were 408,500 claims, while in 1957 there were only 279,500.

Benefit claim exhaustions under the regular program in the four-week period ending January 23, 1959 totaled 20,673 as compared with 8,354 in the like period of 1957 and 5,689 in the corresponding 28 days in 1956.

The Oneonta area was removed from the "substantial labor surplus" list in January as expansion took place in its manufacturing employment, the department reported. Six major and 14 smaller areas in the state are still so classified.

The department also noted that new business incorporations in the state accelerated in the fourth quarter of 1958, while the rate of business failures declined. More than 8,000 charters for new business were issued from October through December, compared with 6,200 during the last quarter of 1957. The almost 770 New York firms which failed in the fourth quarter of 1958—according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.—represented a slackening of the rate of failures experienced earlier in the year. However, the 3,400 business failures recorded in the state in 1958 were greater than in any year since 1941.

Passed 5,000,000 Mark

By November 30th, motor vehicle registrations in the state had passed the 5,000,000 mark for the first time. In the first 11 months of 1958, registrations exclusive of dealers and transporters totaled 5,021,000 as compared with 4,944,000 in the 12 months of 1957.

Department stores sales in the four weeks ending January 24, were up one per cent in the New York Federal Reserve District and four per cent nationally compared with a year ago. New York's apparel stores reported a three per cent gain in the same period.

Breaks Beat Sound Contract

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How would you bid the North and South hands? You would certainly start with North's diamond opening and South's one spade response.

Maybe you would only bid two hearts as North's second bid. Maybe you would quit at four or five spades with the South hand.

If you stopped short of a slam you would wind up with game and rubber but you would be underbidding. The North-South hands definitely warrant a slam contract and it is just several bad breaks that beat the slam.

West opened the queen of clubs. If South had chosen to win in his own hand and lead the three of diamonds he would probably have made the hand. I am sure that West Would have gone right up with the diamond ace.

However, South made what he considered a better play. He ruffed in dummy and cashed the king and jack of trumps. He had planned to overtake but when East showed out he had to abandon this plan. Instead he led a low diamond to his jack. West took his ace and returned the suit. South was back in dummy with no way to get to his own hand to draw the rest of the trumps.

North suggested that South should have gone to six diamonds but East can beat that contract by opening his singleton spade. Some days are just bad for slam bidders.

"I came as the bell of the ball!"

State Business Activity Termed Less Than Normal

ALBANY—Business activity in New York State showed a less than normal seasonal increase during December as a result of heavier than usual layoffs in manufacturing industries, the State Department of Commerce reported today.

The seasonally adjusted index of business activity for New York State (1947-49 equals 100) was 131. While this represented a drop from the November index of 132, it was still three points higher than in December 1957.

No Seasonal Lift

The department's report on the current business situation indicated that while December business did not show the usual seasonal improvement normal for December, the total output of goods and services during the month was equal to that of the peak December of 1956.

Total nonagricultural employment in the state improved in December as retail trade hiring sparked the usual Christmas season pickup. The total of 6,111,000 at work during the month represented an increase of 14,000 from November. This was 165,500 lower than in December 1957 and 196,000 lower than in December 1956.

The seasonally adjusted index of factory output showed a drop of three points from November to 122 in December. This was eight points below the index for December 1956. At the same time, factory employment fell to the lowest December total since 1947. At 1,750,000, December factory jobs were 102,400 fewer than in December 1957 and 227,300 fewer than in December 1956. Durable goods industries added 300 workers to their payrolls during the month, but seasonal layoffs in nondurables totaled 40,100.

418,000 Filed

Insured unemployment, the department noted, increased seasonally in January. In the week ended January 23, 1959, some 418,000 applicants filed for benefits under the regular New York State program. In the corresponding week of 1958 there were 408,500 claims, while in 1957 there were only 279,500.

Benefit claim exhaustions under the regular program in the four-week period ending January 23, 1959 totaled 20,673 as compared with 8,354 in the like period of 1957 and 5,689 in the corresponding 28 days in 1956.

The Oneonta area was removed from the "substantial labor surplus" list in January as expansion took place in its manufacturing employment, the department reported. Six major and 14 smaller areas in the state are still so classified.

The department also noted that new business incorporations in the state accelerated in the fourth quarter of 1958, while the rate of business failures declined. More than 8,000 charters for new business were issued from October through December, compared with 6,200 during the last quarter of 1957. The almost 770 New York firms which failed in the fourth quarter of 1958—according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.—represented a slackening of the rate of failures experienced earlier in the year. However, the 3,400 business failures recorded in the state in 1958 were greater than in any year since 1941.

Passed 5,000,000 Mark

By November 30th, motor vehicle registrations in the state had passed the 5,000,000 mark for the first time. In the first 11 months of 1958, registrations exclusive of dealers and transporters totaled 5,021,000 as compared with 4,944,000 in the 12 months of 1957.

Department stores sales in the four weeks ending January 24, were up one per cent in the New York Federal Reserve District and four per cent nationally compared with a year ago. New York's apparel stores reported a three per cent gain in the same period.

Breaks Beat Sound Contract

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

How would you bid the North and South hands? You would certainly start with North's diamond opening and South's one spade response.

Maybe you would only bid two hearts as North's second bid. Maybe you would quit at four or five spades with the South hand.

If you stopped short of a slam you would wind up with game and rubber but you would be underbidding. The North-South hands definitely warrant a slam contract and it is just several bad breaks that beat the slam.

West opened the queen of clubs. If South had chosen to win in his own hand and lead the three of diamonds he would probably have made the hand. I am sure that West Would have gone right up with the diamond ace.

However, South made what he considered a better play. He ruffed in dummy and cashed the king and jack of trumps. He had planned to overtake but when East showed out he had to abandon this plan. Instead he led a low diamond to his jack. West took his ace and returned the suit. South was back in dummy with no way to get to his own hand to draw the rest of the trumps.

North suggested that South should have gone to six diamonds but East can beat that contract by opening his singleton spade. Some days are just bad for slam bidders.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

"I thought my son was just tired . . . till I took his temperature"

"We expected our boys to be tired when they got home from their overnight hike with the Boy Scouts. But Mervin, our 14-year-old, felt so terrible I decided to check his temperature. It was 104½°. Well, I fairly flew to the phone. The doctor was sure it was a virus and told me to phone a drugstore and have the pharmacist call him right away. Not more than 25 minutes after I first picked up the phone a prescription was delivered to the door. And by next day Mervin felt fine, and his temperature was normal."

'Keeping Up With Joneses' Is Large Factor for Unrest, Confusion, Says Speaker

An eminent sociology professor and lecturer defined the many pressures hampering family harmony and advised how to counter-act them at a recent B'nai B'rith Women's meeting held at the Jewish Community Center.

Dr. Eugene P. Link, New Paltz State Teachers College teacher and family relations expert, explained how the pressures of finances, school, business, and social and especially community life may tend to pull a family apart so that the individual carries too heavy a burden of responsibility and family feeling is lost.

In a talk sparked with humor as well as information, he blamed over-organized community life, "keeping up with the Joneses," and the many "got-to's" imposed by modern society as the principal causes for unrest and confusion among family members.

"Awareness of these pressures is half the battle of combatting them," said Dr. Link. He also advised, "Plan your time; learn to say no when you must; don't try to do everything and don't be afraid of making a mista!

Mrs. Arnold Pinsly, B B'rith president, conducted a business meeting prior to Dr. Link's address. The organization as a group pledged to participate in the city-wide March of Dimes campaign, now over. Mrs. Carl Lipton, Jewish Education chairman, reviewed the current novel "Exodus" by Leon Uris.

Also announced was a poster contest to mark Brotherhood Week, February 15-22. Mrs. Harry Gold will chairman the competition whose aim is to foster original thoughts on the meaning of brotherhood. All high school students are eligible to enter the contest and win one of three awards of $10, $5 or $3, or one of three honorable mentions. Judging will take place on Feb. 16.

Mrs. Martin Singer of Saugerties, program co-chairman, announced that a "Sweet Sixteen" birthday party will be held at the next meeting to mark the chapter's 16th anniversary.

Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky, publicity chairman, reported on the new B'nai B'rith Bulletin, whose first issue rolled off the presses last month. The one-page newsletter, which will be devited to what's happening inside the organization, will be published once a month around the 15th. Any member who did not receive the Bulletin and who did not list her name at the meeting is urged to call Mrs. Werbalowsky. Her staff includes Mrs. Martin Weinberg and Mrs. Stanley

Kenneth Brown and Mrs. Capel were hostesses for the refreshments that followed.

Your Husband's Health

It is pretty difficult these days to find a woman without money, especially if she is a widow whose devoted husband has worked himself into an early coronary. And a lot of them do. As a mater of fact one-third of total mortality among men in the age group 25-44 and nearly three-fifths of the deaths among men in the age group of 55-64 are due to heart disease.

It is estimated by the Bureau of the Census that there are more than eight million widows in our country, an increase of more than one million since 1950 and nearly three times the total in 1900.

Any number of these eight million widows will tell you that money and mink are nice things to have, but they do not take the place of a companion or escort. And a paid up insurance policy is not much of an antidote for loneliness.

Seven out of ten women reading this face widowhood someday. And because heart disease is probably the culprit that will rob them of their husbands, Kay Metz, director of women's activities for the Quaker Oats Company, is urging women to "have a heart for hubby in 1959" by adopting a seven point program designed to relieve men from strain and pressure at home and help prevent coronary heart attacks.

1. Remember, the telephone, the clock and the calendar are the tyrants that rule his days. Don't keep him on a rigid schedule at home. Give him time to read his paper, time to putter and a chance to stay home once in awhile.

2. Live within his means. We are being cajoled into buying a trip to Europe, a resort vacation or a convertible. The siren song of easy payments is being sweetly and softly played and as a result one of the problems of modern living.

3. Magnify his basic virtues and overlook his faults. Forty per cent of all business men admit lack of self confidence is an occasional problem. Don't add to his trouble. Compliment him. A man needs to hear nice things just as much as a woman does. Let him know you are devoted to him. Bolster his ego.

4. A nagging wife can wear a man down faster than bad working conditions or long hours. There must be a way to get him to carry the Christmas poinsettia to the basement or to put a light bulb in the garage without nagging. Be original or do it yourself.

5. Is he a breakfast skipper? Maybe it is because your house is like a fire station when an alarm rings. You don't have to start the day in a state bordering on panic. Get up earlier and make sure he gets a hot breakfast in a tranquil atmosphere. Proper nourishment will condition him to the problems he comes face to face with in his job of earning a living. An adequate breakfast is a must.

6. Get him to a doctor. It is disheartening to calculate how many lives could be saved every year if a doctor had been consulted in time. Maybe he is eligible for a free medical checkup at his place of business. If not, take the initiative and arrange for the whole family to have a physical examination.

7. Oh, yes, be sure to develop your own sense of humor. OTHERWISE YOU MAY HAVE THE HEART ATTACK.

National DAR Given Citation by Governor For Month of History

At the meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution Thursday, Feb. 5, the following citation was read from Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, to the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in regard to their designation of February as American History Month.

Governor's Citation

"The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has, most appropriately, designated February of every year as American History Month.

There is, accordingly, a particular fitness in selecting this month for paying tribute to the illustrious individuals and events in our national annuals. It is an occasion for giving thanks for the consequences which have made the United States of America the hope and bulwark of the free world.

"The proper observance of American History Month can serve a fruitful purpose. It can move parents and teachers to stimulate young people to acquire a deeper knowledge of the incomparable story of America. They will derive not only inspiration but also keen enjoyment in the process for no people has a more fascinating history than ours or one more important to our civilization.

"But it is not only youth that American History Month should appeal. Their elders, also, can find in it an occasion for renewing their familiarity with the stirring days that constitute our glorious heritage. So doing, we can be inspired to dedicate ourselves anew to our common purpose of working toward the goal of freedom of opportunity for men everywhere in a world of peace."

Lawyers Are Majority in Both Houses

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although they suffered a slight loss in last year's elections, lawyers still have a working majority of both the Senate and the House in the 86th Congress.

They outnumber fertilizer distributors 288 to 1, congressional biographies listing only one member in the latter category. He is Rep. D. S. Saund (D-Calif), who makes no bones about the fact that his business is "commercial fertilizer distributor."

Lawyers have 59 of the Senate's 98 seats and 229 of the 436 in the House. In the last Congress there were 56 lawyers in the Senate and 234 in the House.

May Be Explanation

The presence of so many lawyers may account for the fact that it takes the proverbial "Philadelphia lawyers" to interpret so many acts of Congress.

Among the more than 20 congressional occupations listed by the legislative reference service are 51 business or manufacturing executives. They constitute the second largest group, with 9 in the Senate and 42 in the House.

The field of journalism, including radio and television, is represented by 8 senators and 23 representatives. Agriculture has 5 senators and 20 representatives, while education has 7 senators and 18 representatives.

Three Accountants

There are three accountants and six advertising and public relations specialists, all in the House. The Senate has one banker, while the House has at least five.

No dentists are listed in either branch, although there are seven doctors or pharmacists in the House.

Three senators and 16 representatives are listed as having made a career out of being public officials.

Five members, all in the House, have been labor leaders.

Alaska's two senators proudly proclaim in their biographies that they have been gold miners.

$400,000 Diamond Theft Reported

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A thief, perhaps a gem expert, stole a reported $400,000 in diamonds, emeralds and other jewelry from the hotel suite of a vacationing New York auto rental magnate.

The theft Sunday was the biggest in the history of Miami Beach luxury hotels.

The jewelry was owned by Leon C. Greenebaum, chairman of the board of Hertz Car Rental Corp., his wife, and her sister, Mrs. Arthur Cole, also of New York.

Greenebaum told newsmen someone either overlooked or chose not to take some of the gems.

Mrs. Cole interrupted the interview with "I do not want any of this in the newspapers." She and her husband operate Mr. Mort, one of New York City's leading dress houses.

Because some of the jewelry was not taken, officers theorized the thief was a professional, knew how to appraise gems and knew what he was after.

The largest piece was a $180,000 ring. The other pieces were mostly diamond and emerald bracelets and necklaces.

Lawyers Are Majority in Both Houses

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although they suffered a slight loss in last year's elections, lawyers still have a working majority of both the Senate and the House in the 86th Congress.

They outnumber fertilizer distributors 288 to 1, congressional biographies listing only one member in the latter category. He is Rep. D. S. Saund (D-Calif), who makes no bones about the fact that his business is "commercial fertilizer distributor."

Lawyers have 59 of the Senate's 98 seats and 229 of the 436 in the House. In the last Congress there were 56 lawyers in the Senate and 234 in the House.

May Be Explanation

The presence of so many lawyers may account for the fact that it takes the proverbial "Philadelphia lawyers" to interpret so many acts of Congress.

Among the more than 20 congressional occupations listed by the legislative reference service are 51 business or manufacturing executives. They constitute the second largest group, with 9 in the Senate and 42 in the House.

The field of journalism, including radio and television, is represented by 8 senators and 23 representatives. Agriculture has 5 senators and 20 representatives, while education has 7 senators and 18 representatives.

Three Accountants

There are three accountants and six advertising and public relations specialists, all in the House. The Senate has one banker, while the House has at least five.

No dentists are listed in either branch, although there are seven doctors or pharmacists in the House.

Three senators and 16 representatives are listed as having made a career out of being public officials.

Five members, all in the House, have been labor leaders.

Alaska's two senators proudly proclaim in their biographies that they have been gold miners.

$400,000 Diamond Theft Reported

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A thief, perhaps a gem expert, stole a reported $400,000 in diamonds, emeralds and other jewelry from the hotel suite of a vacationing New York auto rental magnate.

The theft Sunday was the biggest in the history of Miami Beach luxury hotels.

The jewelry was owned by Leon C. Greenebaum, chairman of the board of Hertz Car Rental Corp., his wife, and her sister, Mrs. Arthur Cole, also of New York.

Greenebaum told newsmen someone either overlooked or chose not to take some of the gems.

Mrs. Cole interrupted the interview with "I do not want any of this in the newspapers." She and her husband operate Mr. Mort, one of New York City's leading dress houses.

Because some of the jewelry was not taken, officers theorized the thief was a professional, knew how to appraise gems and knew what he was after.

The largest piece was a $180,000 ring. The other pieces were mostly diamond and emerald bracelets and necklaces.

And So He Has Satirical Not Going to Church List

There are many people who find it easy to make excuses for not going to church. All sorts of things convince people that they should stay at home. There does not seem to be the same resistance to other attractions. The pastor of the First Methodist Church at Lake Chrystal, Minn., Rev. Grant H. Elford, recently "took the starch" out of members of his congregation by printing in his church paper, satirically-written excuses on "Why I Don't Go to the Movies." The result of the printing was a fifteen per cent increase in his congregation in the next few weeks. Here are the reasons as the minister wrote them:

1. The manager of the theater never called on me.
2. I did go a few times, but no one spoke to me. Those who go there aren't very friendly.
3. Every time I go they ask me for money.
4. Not all folks live up to the high moral standards of the films.
5. I went so much as a child, I've decided I've had all the entertainment I need.
6. The performance lasts too long; I can't sit still for an hour and three-quarters.
7. I don't care for some of the people I see and meet at the theatre.
8. I don't always agree with what I hear and see.
9. I don't think they have very good music in this theatre.
10. The shows are held in the evenings, and that's the only time I am able to be at home with the family.

But, of course, any minister will have a much longer list of excuses than that why members or adherents of his church do not attend.

The hotel manager walked up to the new guest in the lobby.

Hotel manager—Your room is ready now, but because of a shortage of help you'll have to make your own bed.

Guest—Oh, I don't mind making my own bed.

Power Authority Considers Use of Atom Power, Gas

NEW YORK (AP) — the State Power Authority is looking into the possibility of getting into the field of generation of electricity by using atomic power and natural gas.

A section of the authority's annual report, addressed Sunday to Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature, said:

"We have been studying the combination of peacetime electric energy from falling water with other sources of power, atomic, natural gas, etcetera and the possibility that this authority might be useful to the state and in the capacity of a coordinating body prepared to work with the Atomic Energy Commission and other federal agencies and we shall make further recommendations to you on this subject for your consideration."

Present state law limits the authority to hydroelectric generation along the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers.

The annual report called 1958 a "notable year," with the St. Lawrence project practically completed.

The authority also outlined progress on the Niagara project, scheduled for completion in 1961.

Rudyard Kipling was born in Bombay, India, in 1865.

Spurns Liability Rate Increase

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The state superintendent of insurance is rejecting an application for a 40 per cent increase in automobile liability insurance rates in New York.

Supt. Thomas D. Thatcher considers a 40 per cent increase excessive, The Associated Press has learned.

The insurance companies could re-apply for a smaller increase.

The last appeal for a rate boost was made by the insurance industry in 1957. The companies sought then to raise rates on passenger cars by 9½ per cent. Leffert Holz, superintendent at the time, turned down the application.

Won Order

The insurance companies won an order from the Appellate Division directing Holz to reconsider. The Insurance Department carried the case to the Court of Appeals, where it still is pending.

Thatcher was appointed superintendent by Gov. Rockefeller to succeed Holz.

With its new rate boost request, it was learned, the insurance industry had submitted material showing that losses had increased 40 per cent since the 1957 application was submitted.

Asks Rocky Pledge

Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast called on Rockefeller Saturday to pledge that there would be no increase in the rates this year.

Prendergast noted that the Republican administration had raised the gasoline tax by two cents a gallon, and that a bill before the Legislature would set a flat $20 registration fee for all passenger cars.

A combination of the higher gas tax, increased insurance and the proposed registration system would force many motorists off the road and make driving "a luxury the average family could not afford," Prendergast said.

Fire Loss Is $40,000

AKRON, N. Y. (AP) — Fire destroyed the Club restaurant and dance hall near this Erie County community with an estimated loss of $40,000 Sunday.

No one was in the two-story frame building when the fire broke out. The cause has not been determined.

DeSapio Receives Zaretski Support

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmine G. DeSapio, whose Tammany Hall leadership is under attack, has received a vote of confidence from Joseph Zaretzki, Democratic minority leader in the State Senate.

Zaretzki described DeSapio Sunday as "a liberal leader."

During an interview on the WRCA - TV program, "Citizen's Union Searchlight," Zaretzki was asked to comment on a recent move to oust DeSapio from his position as leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization. DeSapio is also a Democratic national committeeman.

Scores 'Friends'

The senator said DeSapio had "moved heaven and earth to reelect" former Gov. Averell Harriman last fall while the governor's "so-called friends did everything they could to hurt" the campaign.

The ouster move is led by Thomas K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert H. Lehman, former governor and U. S. senator.

The senator said DeSapio "has proved a liberal leader" and "has instituted reforms called for by the Citizen's Union for years."

Meanwhile, Finletter expressed disbelief that Harriman does not support the anti-DeSapio move.

"I find it hard to believe that Gov. Harriman, or indeed any other believer in good government, can be opposed to the objectives of this committee," Finletter said in a statement.

Harriman, titular head of the state Democratic Party, reportedly told friends he opposed the actions against DeSapio and that he thought the rebellion would fail because it had no real support. The former governor is en route to India.

Industry, Alumni Should Aid Schools Says Cornell Head

CINCINNATI (AP) — Industry, alumni groups and others should increase their aid to American education, the president of Cornell University maintains.

Deane W. Malott, here for a talk before the Cincinnati chapter of the Cornell Alumni Assn., told a reporter Saturday that a trip to Russia last summer showed him the Soviets are stockpiling brains and abilities.

Malott said Russia devotes about three per cent of its gross national product to education while the U. S. contributes about one per cent to public and private schooling.

Russian college faculties earn about eight times the amount of a Soviet laborer while American professors are paid about twice that of a U.S. laborer—figuring the laborer makes $1.50 an hour, Malott said.

Power Authority Considers Use of Atom Power, Gas

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Power Authority is looking into the possibility of getting into the field of generation of electricity by using atomic power and natural gas.

A section of the authority's annual report, addressed Sunday to Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature, said:

"We have been studying the combination of peacetime electric energy from falling water with other sources of power, atomic, natural gas, etcetera and the possibility that this authority might be useful to the state and in the capacity of a coordinating body prepared to work with the Atomic Energy Commission and other federal agencies and we shall make further recommendations to you on this subject for your consideration."

Present state law limits the authority to hydroelectric generation along the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers.

The annual report called 1958 a "notable year," with the St. Lawrence project practically completed.

The authority also outlined progress on the Niagara project, scheduled for completion in 1961.

Rudyard Kipling was born in Bombay, India, in 1865.

Spurns Liability Rate Increase

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The state superintendent of insurance is rejecting an application for a 40 per cent increase in automobile liability insurance rates in New York.

Supt. Thomas D. Thatcher considers a 40 per cent increase excessive, The Associated Press has learned.

The insurance companies could re-apply for a smaller increase.

The last appeal for a rate boost was made by the insurance industry in 1957. The companies sought then to raise rates on passenger cars by 9½ per cent. Leffert Holz, superintendent at the time, turned down the application.

Won Order

The insurance companies won an order from the Appellate Division directing Holz to reconsider. The Insurance Department carried the case to the Court of Appeals, where it still is pending.

Thatcher was appointed superintendent by Gov. Rockefeller to succeed Holz.

With its new rate boost request, it was learned, the insurance industry had submitted material showing that losses had increased 40 per cent since the 1957 application was submitted.

Asks Rocky Pledge

Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Prendergast called on Rockefeller Saturday to pledge that there would be no increase in the rates this year.

Prendergast noted that the Republican administration had raised the gasoline tax by two cents a gallon, and that a bill before the Legislature would set a flat $20 registration fee for all passenger cars.

A combination of the higher gas tax, increased insurance and the proposed registration system would force many motorists off the road and make driving "a luxury the average family could not afford," Prendergast said.

DeSapio Receives Zaretski Support

NEW YORK (AP)—Carmine G. DeSapio, whose Tammany Hall leadership is under attack, has received a vote of confidence from Joseph Zaretzki, Democratic minority leader in the State Senate.

Zaretzki described DeSapio Sunday as "a liberal leader."

During an interview on the WRCA - TV program, "Citizen's Union Searchlight," Zaretzki was asked to comment on a recent move to oust DeSapio from his position as leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization. DeSapio is also a Democratic national committeeman.

Scores 'Friends'

The senator said DeSapio had "moved heaven and earth to reelect" former Gov. Averell Harriman last fall while the governor's "so-called friends did everything they could to hurt" the campaign.

The ouster move is led by Thomas K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert H. Lehman, former governor and U. S. senator.

The senator said DeSapio "has proved a liberal leader" and "has instituted reforms called for by the Citizen's Union for years."

Meanwhile, Finletter expressed disbelief that Harriman does not support the anti-DeSapio move.

"I find it hard to believe that Gov. Harriman, or indeed any other believer in good government, can be opposed to the objectives of this committee," Finletter said in a statement.

Harriman, titular head of the state Democratic Party, reportedly told friends he opposed the actions against DeSapio and that he thought the rebellion would fail because it had no real support. The former governor is en route to India.

Industry, Alumni Should Aid Schools Says Cornell Head

CINCINNATI (AP) — Industry, alumni groups and others should increase their aid to American education, the president of Cornell University maintains.

Deane W. Malott, here for a talk before the Cincinnati chapter of the Cornell Alumni Assn., told a reporter Saturday that a trip to Russia last summer showed him the Soviets are stockpiling brains and abilities.

Malott said Russia devotes about three per cent of its gross national product to education while the U. S. contributes about one per cent to public and private schooling.

Russian college faculties earn about eight times the amount of a Soviet laborer while American professors are paid about twice that of a U.S. laborer—figuring the laborer makes $1.50 an hour, Malott said.

College Post-Season Tourneys To Have That Same Old Look

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With only a few changes here and there, it's beginning to look like the same old faces will be around when the National Collegiate and National Invitation basketball tournaments form their lineups next month.

At the moment, at least 10 of last year's 16 major conference representatives are headed back to the far-flung NCAA championships.

That would be defending national champion Kentucky from the Southeastern Conference, West Virginia from the Southern, Kansas State from the Big Eight, Cincinnati from the Missouri Valley, Dartmouth from the Ivy League, California from the Pacific Coast, Connecticut from the Yankee, Miami of Ohio from the Mid-American, Idaho State from the Rocky Mountain loop and Arizona State U. from the Border Conference.

That number could be up to 11 if Indiana, last year's Big 10 champion, continues the stretch run that has closed the Hoosiers within a half game of front-running Michigan State.

Some Repeaters

As for the NIT, guesses are that perhaps seven of the 12-team field will be repeaters — including St. Bonaventure, Niagara, St. John's, St. Francis (Pa), Dayton, and Bradley and St. Joseph's (Pa), if they don't win their conference races. Bradley currently is runnerup to Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference and St. Joseph's heads the informal Middle Atlantic group that has done so well in past tournaments with teams like LaSalle and Temple.

The first five are near the top of the list of candidates for either the NIT field or the "at large" berths that round out the NCAA's 24-team lineup. Others include Marquette, Oklahoma City, improving Fordham and, for the NIT only, St. Louis and Denver as possible runners-up in the Mo Valley and Skyline Conference races.

Two Have Problems

Two big names from a year ago —Xavier of Ohio, the defending NIT champion, and NCAA finalist, Seattle — have problems. Xavier hasn't been able to get untracked and Seattle is on NCAA probation.

Probationary action also eliminates unbeaten Auburn, North Carolina State, and Memphis State among the top teams.

Here's a rundown on some conference races:

Ivy League — Dartmouth and Princeton both 7-0.

Southeastern—Ineligible Auburn 8-0 leading, leaving it up to Kentucky 8-1 and Mississippi State 7-1, who meet in Starksville, Miss. tonight.

Atlantic Coast — North Carolina 9-0 leading N.C. State 10-1, but conference tournament decides NCAA representative.

Southern Conference—West Virginia 8-0, with 44 straight loop victories, in class by itself. Mounties still must win postseason conference tourney to make NCAA.

Big Eight — Kansas State 7-0 with two-game lead over Colorado 5-2.

Missouri Valley—Cincinnati 8-0 leading Bradley 6-1 and St. Louis 5-1.

Big Ten—Michigan State leads with 6-2, Indiana challenges with 5-2.

Southwest — Texas Christian leads with 7-1, Texas Tech and Baylor each 5-3.

Pacific Coast — California 6-2, with Washington 6-3 and Oregon State 6-4 in running.

The Old Timers Baseball Association testimonial dinner for Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick has been postponed until Thursday, April 2.

Originally scheduled Jan. 28, the dinner was later postponed to March 5. Another postponement became necessary when Justic Schirick's doctor ordered a six-weeks vacation before Justice Schirick resumed normal activity. He will sojourn at Hollywood Beach, Fla.

All other details of the dinner remain unchanged. Guest speakers will be Harry Grayson, sports editor of NEA and a regular contributor to the sports pages of The Freeman, and Jackie Farrell of the New York Yankees public relations staff.

Frank Sammons will receive the Kingston High school Player of the Year Award and 15 members of the local Hall of Fame will receive pins.

Kingston '5' Wins Five of Six Games

Winning five of six games on the road, the Kingston "5" picked up some ground in the Hudson Valley Bowling race over the weekend and is now struggling for an eighth place berth in the ten team league. The locals defeated the Ellenville Channel Masters in a pair and swept Orange Recreation.

Bill Lawrence fired 187-236-202-625 against the second place Ellenville club. George Shufeldt had 174-213-222-609 and Joe Ausanio scored 203-259-146-608. The Kingston boys bombed a 1089 in the second game and closed with 910 after a poor 889 opener. Sam Fisher led Ellenville with 203-578.

Shufeldt fired 690 against the Orange Recreation with lines of 257-220-213. Charles Delmonico countered with 227-624 for the Newburghers, but it wasn't enough. The locals blasted 991-975-990 for 2,956 sticks. It was their first sweep of the season.

The Kingston Colonials

★★★A Baseball Legend (1921-27)★★★

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Legends have sprung from a half dozen games in the brilliant regime of the Kingston Colonials; legends and myths that have been compounded by failing memories.

One of those most persistent surrounds the July 14, 1927, clash between the Colonials and Buck Ewing's All Stars at Stamford.

Buck Ewing slammed three home runs off Bud Culloton that day. Warmack two hit and Johnson another as the Ewings romped to a 12-5 victory.

According to the legend, the late Jack Robins told Hoffman to put a baseball in his pocket, after Ewing slammed his second homer.

"If this guy (Ewing) hits another ball over your head into the bushes," Robins told Hoffman, "just run in and run out as if you had spotted the ball and throw back the one you have in your pocket."

Buck Wasn't Fooled

If the trick had worked, the story would have further embellishments. But, so goes the tale, old Buck wasn't fooled by the maneuver. Hoffman came racing out of the woods just a little too fast for Buck and, furthermore, the great Negro catcher detected a slight miscalculation in the Colonial strategy.

Ewing remembered that he had hit a shiny new ball tossed by Culloton. The pelota Hoffman fired back to the infield was just a little too soiled to be the original.

As you might expect, a tremendous rhubarb developed and the game was held up for several minutes while the teams debated the authenticity of the ball thrown in by Hoffman. The record book says the Ewing's won the argument and Buck was credited with his third homer of the game.

Jack Robins has long since departed for baseball's Valhalla, but two other principals are still around—Bud Culloton and Joey Hoffman.

Boys Just Smile

Culloton appears vague about details of the game when you ask him. He doesn't even recall if the Colonials had another pitcher on hand that day, when he was subjected to 15-hit, six home run lathering by the Ewings. Obviously, he was the only hired hand available for pitching chores. About the Hoffman-in-the-woods incident he remains non-committal.

Hoffman, who through the years has lent sustenance to the tale, is equally cagey about the whole incident.

Did it really happen? Well, we don't know, for sure. But it makes for a helluva story.

Hoffman does remember he had a pretty good day at bat that day, with a triple and two singles. Big Bill Shay clouted a double and two singles. Warmack, a rugged hitter, was a terror for the Ewings. He went "5 for 5" with two homers, two singles and a double.

College Post-Season Tourneys To Have That Same Old Look

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With only a few changes here and there, it's beginning to look like the same old faces will be around when the National Collegiate and National Invitation basketball tournaments form their lineups next month.

At the moment, at least 10 of last year's 16 major conference representatives are headed back to the far-flung NCAA championships.

That would be defending national champion Kentucky from the Southeastern Conference, West Virginia from the Southern, Kansas State from the Big Eight, Cincinnati from the Missouri Valley, Dartmouth from the Ivy League, California from the Pacific Coast, Connecticut from the Yankee, Miami of Ohio from the Mid-American, Idaho State from the Rocky Mountain loop and Arizona State U. from the Border Conference.

That number could be up to 11 if Indiana, last year's Big 10 champion, continues the stretch run that has closed the Hoosiers within a half game of front-running Michigan State.

Some Repeaters

As for the NIT, guesses are that perhaps seven of the 12-team field will be repeaters — including St. Bonaventure, Niagara, St. John's, St. Francis (Pa), Dayton, and Bradley and St. Joseph's (Pa), if they don't win their conference races. Bradley currently is runnerup to Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference and St. Joseph's heads the informal Middle Atlantic group that has done so well in past tournaments with teams like LaSalle and Temple.

The first five are near the top of the list of candidates for either the NIT field or the "at large" berths that round out the NCAA's 24-team lineup. Others include Marquette, Oklahoma City, improving Fordham and, for the NIT only, St. Louis and Denver as possible runners-up in the Mo Valley and Skyline Conference races.

Two Have Problems

Two big names from a year ago —Xavier of Ohio, the defending NIT champion, and NCAA finalist, Seattle — have problems. Xavier hasn't been able to get untracked and Seattle is on NCAA probation.

Probationary action also eliminates unbeaten Auburn, North Carolina State, and Memphis State among the top teams.

Here's a rundown on some conference races:

Ivy League — Dartmouth and Princeton both 7-0.

Southeastern—Ineligible Auburn 8-0 leading, leaving it up to Kentucky 8-1 and Mississippi State 7-1, who meet in Starksville, Miss. tonight.

Atlantic Coast — North Carolina 9-0 leading N.C. State 10-1, but conference tournament decides NCAA representative.

Southern Conference—West Virginia 8-0, with 44 straight loop victories, in class by itself. Mounties still must win postseason conference tourney to make NCAA.

Big Eight — Kansas State 7-0 with two-game lead over Colorado 5-2.

Missouri Valley—Cincinnati 8-0 leading Bradley 6-1 and St. Louis 5-1.

Big Ten—Michigan State leads with 6-2, Indiana challenges with 5-2.

Southwest — Texas Christian leads with 7-1, Texas Tech and Baylor each 5-3.

Pacific Coast — California 6-2, with Washington 6-3 and Oregon State 6-4 in running.

He was elected Saturday by delegates from New Hampshire, Florida, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio, Massachusetts and New Jersey who attended a two-day meeting. California also is a member.

George Grinnell of New Hampshire, Al Shuger of Maryland and Garrett Claypool of Ohio were elected vice presidents.

Schirick Testimonial Postponed to April 2

The Old Timers Baseball Association testimonial dinner for Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick has been postponed until Thursday, April 2.

Originally scheduled Jan. 28, the dinner was later postponed to March 5. Another postponement became necessary when Justic Schirick's doctor ordered a six-weeks vacation before Justice Schirick resumed normal activity. He will sojourn at Hollywood Beach, Fla.

All other details of the dinner remain unchanged. Guest speakers will be Harry Grayson, sports editor of NEA and a regular contributor to the sports pages of The Freeman, and Jackie Farrell of the New York Yankees public relations staff.

Frank Sammons will receive the Kingston High school Player of the Year Award and 15 members of the local Hall of Fame will receive pins.

Kingston '5' Wins Five of Six Games

Winning five of six games on the road, the Kingston "5" picked up some ground in the Hudson Valley Bowling race over the weekend and is now struggling for an eighth place berth in the ten team league. The locals defeated the Ellenville Channel Masters in a pair and swept Orange Recreation.

Bill Lawrence fired 187-236-202-625 against the second place Ellenville club, George Shufeldt had 174-213-222-609 and Joe Ausanio scored 203-259-146-608. The Kingston boys bombed a 1089 in the second game and closed with 910 after a poor 889 opener. Sam Fisher led Ellenville with 203-578.

Shufeldt fired 690 against the Orange Recreation with lines of 257-220-213. Charles Delmonico countered with 227-624 for the Newburghers, but it wasn't enough. The locals blasted 991-975-990 for 2,956 sticks. It was their first sweep of the season.

The Kingston Colonials

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Legends have sprung from a half dozen games in the brilliant regime of the Kingston Colonials; legends and myths that have been compounded by failing memories.

One of those most persistent surrounds the July 14, 1927, clash between the Colonials and Buck Ewing's All Stars at Stamford.

Buck Ewing slammed three home runs off Bud Culloton that day. Warmack two hit and Johnson another as the Ewings romped to a 12-5 victory.

But the myth surrounds Joey Hoffman, the Colonials' left fielder that day, and the manner in which Ewing hit his three home runs.

According to the legend, the late Jack Robins told Hoffman to put a baseball in his pocket, after Ewing slammed his second homer.

"If this guy (Ewing) hits another ball over your head into the bushes," Robins told Hoffman, "just run in and run out as if you had spotted the ball and throw back the one you have in your pocket."

Buck Wasn't Fooled

If the trick had worked, the story would have further embellishments. But, so goes the tale, old Buck wasn't fooled by the maneuver. Hoffman came racing out of the woods just a little too fast for Buck and, furthermore, the great Negro catcher detected a slight miscalculation in the Colonial strategy.

Ewing remembered that he had hit a shiny new ball tossed by Culloton. The pelota Hoffman fired back to the infield was just a little too soiled to be the original.

As you might expect, a tremendous rhubarb developed and the game was held up for several minutes while the teams debated the authenticity of the ball thrown in by Hoffman. The record book says the Ewing's won the argument and Buck was credited with his third homer of the game.

Jack Robins has long since departed for baseball's Valhalla, but two other principals are still around—Bud Culloton and Joey Hoffman.

Boys Just Smile

Culloton appears vague about details of the game when you ask him. He doesn't even recall if the Colonials had another pitcher on hand that day, when he was subjected to 15-hit, six home run lathering by the Ewings. Obviously, he was the only hired hand available for pitching chores. About the Hoffman-in-the-woods incident he remains non-committal.

Hoffman, who through the years has lent sustenance to the tale, is equally cagey about the whole incident.

Did it really happen? Well, we don't know, for sure. But it makes for a helluva story.

Hoffman does remember he had a pretty good day at bat that day, with a triple and two singles. Big Bill Shay clouted a double and two singles. Warmack, a rugged hitter, was a terror for the Ewings. He went "5 for 5" with two homers, two singles and a double.

Brown to Meet Busso For Lightweight Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first world championship boxing bout of 1959 is scheduled for Houston Wednesday with Joe Brown defending his lightweight title for the sixth time. The challenger will be 24-year-old Johnny Busso of New York.

Busso got the title shot after he upset the champ in an over-the-weight 'bout Nov. 5 at Miami Beach, Fla. The champion was most unimpressive at 140½ pounds while Busso, at 139¾, fought his usual forcing, body-punching fight.

If Brown runs true to form, he will flatten Busso in the rematch. He did that with Joey Lopes of Sacramento after being held to a draw when the championship was not on the line. Less than four months later in December 1957, he stopped Lopes in 11 rounds.

Only Kenny Lane has been able to go the route in a title bout with Brown since the 32-year-old champ from New Orleans lifted the championship from Wallace (Bud) Smith in 1956.

Busso, an eager young man with a 35-7-1 record, normally weighs between 137 and 140 pounds. He likes to fire away with anybody who will stand and trade with him.

Good Record

Brown, veteran of 98 fights (71-16-9 and 2 no decisions) prefers to pace himself, warming up as he goes along.

The championship battle will be carried on ABC television, starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Ryff in Comeback

Ryff has won two straight this year under his new manager, former double ring champion Barney Ross. Frankie, a clever boxer whose career has been interrupted several times by eye cuts, has a 29-6 career record.

Andrade, at one time a top contender in the 135-pound class, had to stop boxing a few years back because of arm trouble that required an operation. The Cisco Kid has a 39-4-1 record.

Recs Shoot 3229 Pins In HVBL

With Phil Versace showing the way with a 736 blast, the Dutchess Recreation team of Poughkeepsie broke the high triple mark for the season yesterday at the Bridge City lanes with a sensational 3,229 sticks against Charles Men's Shop of Newburgh. The Recs had the previous high blast, 3,196. The league record is 3,414 set by the Rapp Furniture Express of Kingston several years ago.

Versace, who has his sights set on the individual scoring title, mauled the maple for lines of 247-224-265 for his mammoth total. He was joined by Jake Charter 667, George Baird 666, John Avello 602 and Dick Rhea 558. The Recs fired 1127-972-1130 for their total. However, they failed to beat the team high single mark, a whooping 1135 sticks compiled by Forst's Formost of Kingston earlier in the year.

The Recs, who are running away with the league honors, Shot 2905 against the Ellenville Channel Masters and won two games Saturday night in Poughkeepsie. Charter had 662 to lead the way. Versace did not bowl Saturday.

Veteran Bids For Loop Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fred Glover, 31-year-old veteran of 10 seasons in the American Hockey League, is closing in on Fred Thurier's circuit scoring record.

The Cleveland winger picked up two assists Sunday night in a losing cause to run his career point total to 701 on 293 goals and 408 assists. Thurier, now retired, compiled 744 points in 13 seasons.

All of Glover's fine work couldn't keep the injury-riddled Barons from going down to their fifth straight defeat, at the hands of the Providence Reds 6-4. Saturday night they lost to the fast-stepping Rochester Americans 8-5.

The Amerks tied the second-place Hershey Bears 3-3 in overtime Sunday night for a record of four victories and a tie in their last six games.

Hershey beat pace-setting Buffalo 2-0 Saturday night before tying Rochester. The Bisons came back Sunday and downed the Springfield Indians 4-3. The Indians beat Springfield 4-3 in overtime Saturday.

Chicago Bears Sign Tulane's Petitbon

Petitbon, No. 2 Bear draft choice, will give up his final year of eligibility in college football by signing a pro football contract.

Rig Is Hurt In Crash at Berkeley

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) —The San Francisco Giants open spring training preliminaries this week without Manager Bill Rigney, painfully injured in an auto crash Sunday.

Rigney suffered multiple fractures of the lower jaw and a broken collarbone when his car rammed a power pole in nearby Berkeley. His wife, Paula, 38, suffered a broken hip and lacerations of the scalp and legs.

The Rigneys, parents of three children, were driving home from a dinner party at Giant Vice President Chub Feeney's San Mateo home, when the accident happened at 4:30 a.m.

Rigney told police he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car reportedly struck the pole at about 35 miles an hour.

Good Condition

Both Rigney, 41, and his wife were reported in good condition at Kaiser Hospital. The family physician said Rigney would be hospitalized about a week, and would have to remain home another 10 days. Mrs. Rigney will be hospitalized considerably longer.

In Phoenix, Ariz., Giant President Horace Stoneham said he would let Rigney decide who will be in nominal charge. Stoneham indicated, however, it would either be F. J. (Salty) Parker or Wes Westrum, both coaches.

Chiefs, Elston's Capture 'Y' Tilts

George Uhl went on a 32-point scoring spree Saturday night in the B division of the YMCA League as Texaco Chiefs scored their first win of the season, 78-74, over the Byrne Chevrolets. In a C encounter, Elston's nipped the Bombers, 54-48, to move into a second place tie in the division.

The Chiefs were nine points down with six minutes to go against the Chevvies. Then Tom Cragan made a key layup, Uhl hit wth two foul shots and Dick Landcastle scored with a jump shot with 48 seconds to go to break up the tight contest.

Three long set shots by Erwin Sillings in the final two minutes was the difference in the Elston-Bomber game. He led the winners with 18 points.

The games marked the end of the first round in all the circuits. Katsbaan leads the A division with a 6-1 mark. Accord has a 7-1 record in the B division and DeWitt's is 7-2 in the C division.

Larries Lead State Hockey

St. Lawrence, leading the Tri-State Hockey League with a 4-0 record, might very well be one of the two eastern college teams selected for the NCAA championships in Troy next month.

Results of other Saturday games involving Upstate New York teams:

Princeton 6, Cornell 1; Williams 7, Colgate 2; Hamilton 5, Alumni 5 (tie); Toronto 4, Clarkson 2.

St. Lawrence (10-5-1) came within 37 seconds of shutting out RPI (10-6). Paul Midghall, the nation's leading scorer, saved RPI from a whitewash with a goal in the closing minute.

The Larries' attack was sparked by Larry Langill, who netted a pair of goals within a minute and four seconds in the third period.

Two eastern clubs will face two western teams in the NCAA tournament March 12-14 at the RPI Field House.

Fashion Changes Present State With Wildlife Problem

ITHACA, N. Y (.AP)—A wildlife problem confronts New York State because of changing fashions in furs, increased imports and the development of synthetics, a zoologist reports.

Dr. W. J. Hamilton Jr., of the New York State College of Agriculture, said Sunday that trapping has dropped sharply with the decline in demand and prices for beaver, fox, raccoon and muskrat pelts.

As a result, he said, the animals are multiplying rapidly and causing heavy damage to property and resources.

The beaver population, Hamilton said, has reached "alarming proportions" and is damaging timber, highways and tillable land.

"ats, he said, have become to farm ponds and crops, the state has to employ trappers to hunt down rabid foxes.

Dellinger Sees Olympic Chance

BOSTON(AP) — Lt. Bill Dellinger sees his world indoor two mile record as a step toward the Olympic 5,000 meter gold medal he wants in 1960.

The Air Force lieutenant revealed his goal Saturday night after racing to a 8:49.9 clocking in the 70th Boston A. A. Games. Horace Ashenfelter had the listed indoor standard of 8:50.5 posted in 1954.

The 24-year-old former University of Oregon miler has decided on the longer distances—at least in terms of the Olympics.

"I'm not going in the 1,500 meters (just under a mile) because there are too many good runners in it," Dellinger said. "I figure I have a better chance, Russians and all, in the 5,000 meters. All this is just training for the 5,000."

Dellinger had asked to be switched to the two mile because "I got tired of running second to Ron Delany." Three weeks earlier, he chased the bobbing Irishman across the finish the Knights of Columbus Mile here — 10 yards back.

Dellinger won the NCAA mile as a sophomore in 1954 and has the fastest 1,500 meter time ever recorded for an American, 3:41.5.

Delany registered his 27th consecutive indoor mile triumph in 4:04.3.

American Milers Just Too Soft, Says Elliott

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Herb Elliott, the 20-year-old Australian who holds the world mile record, says American trackmen are too soft.

"A lot of chaps can run the first half in two minutes," Elliott said, "but running the second half constitutes the real test. They (U.S. runners) can't do it, because the body wants to stop.

"If the Americans want to run, they'll have to deny themselves of what the body wants, like chocolates, for instance."

Elliott and tennis queen Althea Gibson of New York will receive trophies tonight as the Male and Female Athlete-of-the-Year for 1958.

Littler Is Winner of Golf Match

By BOB WOOD

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —Professional golf's touring caravan headed for Tucson today with Gene Littler the latest to pocket a tournament championship check.

Littler scrambled in Sunday with a one-over-par 71 to collect $2,400 in the $20,000 Phoenix Open.

The 28-year-old San Diego golfer toured the 72-holes in a 12-under-par 268 that tied a tourney record set in 1948 by Bobby Locke.

Runnerup Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa., was six strokes down when the final round opened, but chopped away five of them with a sizzling 66.

Littler provided a heart-stopper for the record gallery of 8,000 when he came to the 18th needing only a par-5 to win. He missed a 4-foot putt and the ball bounced two feet past the cup. Then he rammed it home for his first championship since the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions in April 1957.

Wall collected $1,700 for his second place finish and boosted his winnings for the year to $13,600 — tops among the touring pros.

Tied for third place were Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach, Calif.; Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.; and John McMullin, Fair Oaks, Calif. All, seven strokes back, collected $1,133.

Littler who said, "I hit some spectacular shots and some awful poor shots," had to scramble throughout the round. He shot par on only five holes as he picked up one eagle, four birdies and seven bogies.

That eagle came on the par-4, 395 - yard fourth hole, when the California sank a 160-yard approach shot.

Second Place Goes to Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Black Hawks apparently aren't reading the script that tabs them as National Hockey League patsies.

Nor are the Detroit Red Wings paying much attention to the part that says they are supposed to be riding with the leaders.

The Hawks have second place to themselves today after drubbing New York and Toronto during the weekend. Detroit is mired in the cellar after two weekend losses.

The Hawks belted Toronto Sunday night 7 - 2 after giving the third-place Rangers a 6-3 licking in Saturday's nationally televised game. The Wings lost to league-leading Montreal, 3 - 1, Sunday night and to the Maple Leafs, 4-1, Saturday.

The Boston Bruins took a pair in weekend play, beating Montreal, 3-2, Saturday and the Rangers, 4-1, Sunday night.

The Black Hawks have gone six games without a loss, and have won their last three. There are a pair of 3-3 ties in the string, both with Montreal, whom they trial by 10 points in the NHL race.

Ted Lindsay, Ed Litzenberger and Tod Sloan were the keys to Chicago's weekend success. Lindsay got a goal and five assists; Litzenberger three goals — all against New York Saturday—and three assists; and Sloan had two goals and two assists.

Montreal's victory broke a five-game winless streak that extended back to Jan. 25 when the Canadiens beat the Wings 7-3.

Walther Wins Bowling Match

Billed as the "battle of the season," the TV meeting yesterday of Johnny Walther and Morris Cramer, one-two men in the Capital District Classic league, turned out to be the most one-sided in the series when Walther won 691-515.

Cramer came close to 200 only in the opening game. He hit 192, then followed with 162 and 161 for the lowest triple in the show's history.

Walther, who is averaging close to 230 for 21 games before the TV camera, saw a split spoil his chance for another 700 series in the final frame. He hit 247-246-198. The champ will meet veteran Steve Chippernoll, Saratogo's "Mighty Mite," next Sunday.

Art Devlin Predicts Dion Can Be the Best in Years

SALISBURY, Conn. (AP) — Roger Dion, a crew-cut 19-year-old who quit the University of New Hampshire because it had no school skiing facilities, could turn into the finest jumper the United States has had in decades.

That's the word of veteran Art Devlin, himself one of the greatest jumpers ever to compete for Uncle Sam.

"But," Devlin said sadly today," Roger is just too nice a kid. He doesn't have much fight in him. He doesn't want to make the other guys feel like he wants to beat them.

"I've been trying to make him mean. That's all he needs to become really great. He could be the best skier on our Olympic team next year."

Devlin has taken it upon himself to act as unofficial coach to Dion. He even kept Roger at his Lake Placid, N Y., home for 10 days last year and worked with him practically around the clock.

All Devlin's efforts finally paid off Sunday when Dion won the Eastern Olympic qualifying trials with 223.4 points. And guess who was second? Devlin, no less, with 219.3 points.

"I've never really won a big meet," said Dion, now a freshman at little Paul Smiths College in Northern New York "And I hope this is the start of a streak.

"Gosh, I've been around long enough and competing long enough. I think I put on my first pair of skis at two. I was on this Salisbury Hill when I was 12."

"At Paul Smiths," he said seriously, "I'll have plenty of time for skiing."

Wawarsing Club To Raise Ducks

The Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association will hold their monthly dinner meeting at their cluhouse at Honk Lake, Napanoch on Tuesday, February 10. A baked Ham Supper will be served to the members and guests at 6:30 p. m. sharp and will be followed by the business meeting at 8 p. m.

The Board of Directors has adopted a budget for the year that will permit the obtaining and raising of ducks as well as pheasants for release on unposted land in the area. It is expected that the pheasants will be obtained again free from the Conservation Department, and it is hoped that the ducks can also be obtained for no more than a nominal cost through the cooperation of the Federal Game Management. The main cost of these projects is for feed, housing and attendance by chick raisers enlisted from the membership.

The duck situation will be fully discussed and explored at the meeting. It is expected that Warren Diffendall, U. S. Game Management for this section of this state will come from his home in Wallkill that evening as a guest of the club and explain the project to the members.

New York Caledonian No. 2 captured the Mohawk Trophy with a 10-8 victory over New York Caledonian No. 1. Bill Terry skipped No. 1, J. Henderson led

Veeck Gets 54 Percent Of Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Sale of controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox to Bill Veeck appeared imminent today with but one possible roadblock.

Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, who controls 3,235 shares of stock, announced Saturday she will sell her 54 per cent interest to Veeck who has an option to but before Feb. 18.

However, Dorothy's brother, Chuck Comiskey, has taken court action to prevent his sister from selling.

Chuck has a petition in Probate Court to halt the sale. Mrs. Rigney says the court cannot stop her from selling to Veeck.

A hearing on Chuck's petition is scheduled Feb. 16.

Meanwhile, Charles O. Finley, head of an insurance brokerage firm, has revealed he is interested in buying the club. Finley has $500,000 in escrow for the purchase and has an option which will expire April 18. However, his option will be good only if Veeck fails to buy Mrs. Rigney's stock by Feb. 18.

Veeck has announced he will exercise his option.

Rig Is Hurt In Crash at Berkeley

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) —The San Francisco Giants open spring training preliminaries this week without Manager Bill Rigney, painfully injured in an auto crash Sunday.

Rigney suffered multiple fractures of the lower jaw and a broken collarbone when his car rammed a power pole in nearby Berkeley. His wife, Paula, 38, suffered a broken hip and lacerations of the scalp and legs.

The Rigneys, parents of three children, were driving home from a dinner party at Giant Vice President Chub Feeney's San Mateo home, when the accident happened at 4:30 a.m.

Rigney told police he apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The car reportedly struck the pole at about 35 miles an hour.

Good Condition

Both Rigney, 41, and his wife were reported in good condition at Kaiser Hospital. The family physician said Rigney would be hospitalized about a week, and would have to remain home another 10 days. Mrs. Rigney will be hospitalized considerably longer.

In Phoenix, Ariz., Giant President Horace Stoneham said he would let Rigney decide who will be in nominal charge. Stoneham indicated, however, it would either be F. J. (Salty) Parker or Wes Westrum, both coaches.

Veeck Gets 54 Percent Of Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Sale of controlling interest in the Chicago White Sox to Bill Veeck appeared imminent today with but one possible roadblock.

Mrs. Dorothy Comiskey Rigney, who controls 3,235 shares of stock, announced Saturday she will sell her 54 per cent interest to Veeck who has an option to but before Feb. 18.

However, Dorothy's brother, Chuck Comiskey, has taken court action to prevent his sister from selling.

Chuck has a petition in Probate Court to halt the sale. Mrs. Rigney says the court cannot stop her from selling to Veeck.

A hearing on Chuck's petition is scheduled Feb. 16.

Meanwhile, Charles O. Finley, head of an insurance brokerage firm, has revealed he is interested in buying the club. Finley has $500,000 in escrow for the purchase and has an option which will expire April 18. However, his option will be good only if Veeck fails to buy Mrs. Rigney's stock by Feb. 18.

Veeck has announced he will exercise his option.

Brown to Meet Busso For Lightweight Crown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first world championship boxing bout of 1959 is scheduled for Houston Wednesday with Joe Brown defending his lightweight title for the sixth time. The challenger will be 24-year-old Johnny Busso of New York.

Busso got the title shot after he upset the champ in an over-the-weight 'bout Nov. 5 at Miami Beach, Fla. The champion was most unimpressive at 140½ pounds while Busso, at 139¾, fought his usual forcing, body-punching fight.

If Brown runs true to form, he will flatten Busso in the rematch. He did that with Joey Lopes of Sacramento after being held to a draw when the championship was not on the line. Less than four months later in December 1957, he stopped Lopes in 11 rounds.

Only Kenny Lane has been able to go the route in a title bout with Brown since the 32-year-old champ from New Orleans lifted the championship from Wallace (Bud) Smith in 1956.

Busso, an eager young man with a 35-7-1 record, normally weighs between 137 and 140 pounds. He likes to fire away with anybody who will stand and trade with him.

Good Record

Brown, veteran of 98 fights (71-16-9 and 2 no decisions) prefers to pace himself, warming up as he goes along.

The championship battle will be carried on ABC television, starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Ryff in Comeback

Ryff has won two straight this year under his new manager, former double ring champion Barney Ross. Frankie, a clever boxer whose career has been interrupted several times by eye cuts, has a 29-6 career record.

Andrade, at one time a top contender in the 135-pound class, had to stop boxing a few years back because of arm trouble that required an operation. The Cisco Kid has a 39-4-1 record.

Claim Sinking

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today claimed to have sunk a Nationalist gunboat off the Fukien coast at the northern entrance to the Formosa Strait.

The earliest form of insurance consisted of risk policies for ships in 1583.

Recs Shoot 3229 Pins In HVBL

With Phil Versace showing the way with a 736 blast, the Dutchess Recreation team of Poughkeepsie broke the high triple mark for the season yesterday at the Bridge City lanes with a sensational 3,229 sticks against Charles Men's Shop of Newburgh. The Recs had the previous high blast, 3,196. The league record is 3,414 set by the Rapp Furniture Express of Kingston several years ago.

Versace, who has his sights set on the individual scoring title, mauled the maple for lines of 247-224-265 for his mammoth total. He was joined by Jake Charter 667, George Baird 666, John Avello 602 and Dick Rhea 558. The Recs fired 1127-972-1130 for their total. However, they failed to beat the team high single mark, a whooping 1135 sticks compiled by Forst's Formost of Kingston earlier in the year.

The Recs, who are running away with the league honors, Shot 2905 against the Ellenville Channel Masters and won two games Saturday night in Poughkeepsie. Charter had 662 to lead the way. Versace did not bowl Saturday.

Veteran Bids For Loop Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fred Glover, 31-year-old veteran of 10 seasons in the American Hockey League, is closing in on Fred Thurier's circuit scoring record.

The Cleveland winger picked up two assists Sunday night in a losing cause to run his career point total to 701 on 293 goals and 408 assists. Thurier, now retired, compiled 744 points in 13 seasons.

All of Glover's fine work couldn't keep the injury-riddled Barons from going down to their fifth straight defeat, at the hands of the Providence Reds 6-4. Saturday night they lost to the fast-stepping Rochester Americans 8-5.

The Amerks tied the second-place Hershey Bears 3-3 in overtime Sunday night for a record of four victories and a tie in their last six games.

Hershey beat pace-setting Buffalo 2-0 Saturday night before tying Rochester. The Bisons came back Sunday and downed the Springfield Indians 4-3. The Indians beat Springfield 4-3 in overtime Saturday.

Chicago Bears Sign Tulane's Petitbon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chicago Bears will sign Richie Petitbon, star Tulane junior quarterback, next summer, the Times-Picayune said today.

Petitbon, No. 2 Bear draft choice, will give up his final year of eligibility in college football by signing a pro football contract.

Chiefs, Elston's Capture 'Y' Tilts

George Uhl went on a 32-point scoring spree Saturday night in the B division of the YMCA League as Texaco Chiefs scored their first win of the season, 78-74, over the Byrne Chevrolets. In a C encounter, Elston's nipped the Bombers, 54-48, to move into a second place tie in the division.

The Chiefs were nine points down with six minutes to go against the Chevvies. Then Tom Cragan made a key layup, Uhl hit with two foul shots and Dick Landcastle scored with a jump shot with 48 seconds to go to break up the tight contest.

Three long set shots by Erwin Sillings in the final two minutes was the difference in the Elston-Bomber game. He led the winners with 18 points.

The games marked the end of the first round in all the circuits. Katsbaan leads the A division with a 6-1 mark. Accord has a 7-1 record in the B division and DeWitt's is 7-2 in the C division.

Larries Lead State Hockey

St. Lawrence, leading the Tri-State Hockey League with a 4-0 record, might very well be one of the two eastern college teams selected for the NCAA championships in Troy next month.

The Larries strengthened their chance for a tournament bid Saturday night by crushing Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 5-1 at Canton.

Results of other Saturday games involving Upstate New York teams:

Princeton 6, Cornell 1; Williams 7, Colgate 2; Hamilton 5, Alumni 5 (tie); Toronto 4, Clarkson 2.

St. Lawrence (10-5-1) came within 37 seconds of shutting out RPI (10-6). Paul Midghall, the nation's leading scorer, saved RPI from a whitewash with a goal in the closing minute.

The Larries' attack was sparked by Larry Langill, who netted a pair of goals within a minute and four seconds in the third period.

Two eastern clubs will face two western teams in the NCAA tournament March 12-14 at the RPI Field House.

Fashion Changes Present State With Wildlife Problem

ITHACA, N. Y (AP)—A wildlife problem confronts New York State because of changing fashions in furs, increased imports and the development of synthetics, a zoologist reports.

Dr. W. J. Hamilton Jr., of the New York State College of Agriculture, said Sunday that trapping has dropped sharply with the decline in demand and prices for beaver, fox, raccoon and muskrat pelts.

As a result, he said, the animals are multiplying rapidly and causing heavy damage to property and resources.

The beaver population, Hamilton said, has reached "alarming proportions" and is damaging timber, highways and tillable land.

...rats, he said, have become ... to farm ponds and crops, ... the state has to employ trappers to hunt down rabid foxes.

Dellinger Sees Olympic Chance

BOSTON(AP) — Lt. Bill Dellinger sees his world indoor two mile record as a step toward the Olympic 5,000 meter gold medal he wants in 1960.

The Air Force lieutenant revealed his goal Saturday night after racing to a 8:49.9 clocking in the 70th Boston A. A. Games. Horace Ashenfelter had the listed indoor standard of 8:50.5 posted in 1954.

The 24-year-old former University of Oregon miler has decided on the longer distances—at least in terms of the Olympics.

"I'm not going in the 1,500 meters (just under a mile) because there are too many good runners in it," Dellinger said. "I figure I have a better chance, Russians and all, in the 5,000 meters. All this is just training for the 5,000."

Dellinger had asked to be switched to the two mile because "I got tired of running second to Ron Delany." Three weeks earlier, he chased the bobbing Irishman across the finish the Knights of Columbus Mile here — 10 yards back.

Dellinger won the NCAA mile as a sophomore in 1954 and has the fastest 1,500 meter time ever recorded for an American, 3:41.5.

Delany registered his 27th consecutive indoor mile triumph in 4:04.3.

American Milers Just Too Soft, Says Elliott

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Herb Elliott, the 20-year-old Australian who holds the world mile record, says American trackmen are too soft.

"A lot of chaps can run the first half in two minutes," Elliott said, "but running the second half constitutes the real test. They (U.S. runners) can't do it, because the body wants to stop.

"If the Americans want to run, they'll have to deny themselves of what the body wants, like chocolates, for instance."

Elliott and tennis queen Althea Gibson of New York will receive trophies tonight as the Male and Female Athlete-of-the-Year for 1958.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Black Hawks apparently aren't reading the script that tabs them as National Hockey League patsies.

Nor are the Detroit Red Wings paying much attention to the part that says they are supposed to be riding with the leaders.

The Hawks have second place to themselves today after drubbing New York and Toronto during the weekend. Detroit is mired in the cellar after two weekend losses.

The Hawks belted Toronto Sunday night 7 - 2 after giving the third-place Rangers a 6-3 licking in Saturday's nationally televised game. The Wings lost to league-leading Montreal, 3 - 1, Sunday night and to the Maple Leafs, 4-1, Saturday.

The Boston Bruins took a pair in weekend play, beating Montreal, 3-2, Saturday and the Rangers, 4-1, Sunday night.

The Black Hawks have gone six games without a loss, and have won their last three. There are a pair of 3-3 ties in the string, both with Montreal, whom they trial by 10 points in the NHL race.

Ted Lindsay, Ed Litzenberger and Tod Sloan were the keys to Chicago's weekend success. Lindsay got a goal and five assists; Litzenberger three goals — all against New York Saturday—and three assists; and Sloan had two goals and two assists.

Montreal's victory broke a five-game winless streak that extended back to Jan. 25 when the Canadiens beat the Wings 7-3.

Walther Wins Bowling Match

Billed as the "battle of the season," the TV meeting yesterday of Johnny Walther and Morris Cramer, one-two men in the Capital District Classic league, turned out to be the most one-sided in the series when Walther won 691-515.

Cramer came close to 200 only in the opening game. He hit 192, then followed with 162 and 161 for the lowest triple in the show's history.

Walther, who is averaging close to 230 for 21 games before the TV camera, saw a split spoil his chance for another 700 series in the final frame. He hit 247-246-198. The champ will meet veteran Steve Chippernoll, Saratogo's "Mighty Mite," next Sunday.

Wawarsing Club To Raise Ducks

The Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association will hold their monthly dinner meeting at their cluhouse at Honk Lake, Napanoch on Tuesday, February 10. A baked Ham Supper will be served to the members and guests at 6:30 p. m. sharp and will be followed by the business meeting at 8 p. m.

The Board of Directors has adopted a budget for the year that will permit the obtaining and raising of ducks as well as pheasants for release on unposted land in the area. It is expected that the pheasants will be obtained again free from the Conservation Department, and it is hoped that the ducks can also be obtained for no more than a nominal cost through the cooperation of the Federal Game Management. The main cost of these projects is for feed, housing and attendance by chick raisers enlisted from the membership.

The duck situation will be fully discussed and explored at the meeting. It is expected that Warren Diffendall, U. S. Game Management for this section of this state will come from his home in Wallkill that evening as a guest of the club and explain the project to the members.

Physical Exams Set for Boxers

Physical exams for the Golden Gloves Tournament will be conducted at the Poughkeepsie YMCA at 2 p. m., Saturday, Feb. 14 and 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, Feb. 17, Bill Ward, Golden Gloves chairman, announced today.

The Hudson Valley finals will be held on Feb. 20-21 at Poughkeepsie High School. Eastern finals will be held at Madison Square Garden on March 4.

Dr. A. Scafuri and Dr. A. Robbins will conduct the exams, which will be held concurrently with final registration of the fighters for the Poughkeepsie tourney.

Dick Duffee heads the registration sub-committee, now busily engaged in processing the many applications received in the few days. O nthe basis of last minute entries, this year's field is expected to be substantially larger than last year's.

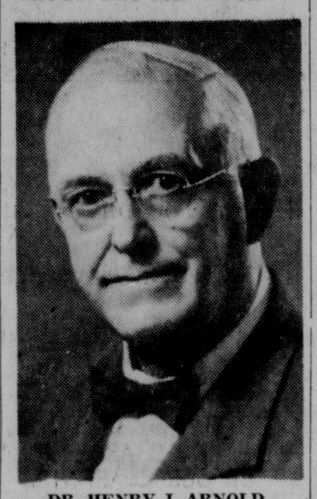
Name New Hall At Area College After Local Man



DR. HENRY J. ARNOLD

Trustees of Hartwick College, Oneonta, this weekend voted to name the new religious and arts building Arnold Hall, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Arnold of Saugerties, former president and first lady of the college.

The announcement by President Miller A. F. Richie said that Dr. Arnold had served the college as president for 14 years prior to his retirement in 1953. Dr. Richie immediately wired news of the trustees' action to Dr. Arnold at Daytona Beach, Fla., where he is convalescing from a recent illness.

Dr. and Mrs. Arnnold were vacationing in Florida when he was stricken early in January and rushed to Daytona Beach Hospital.

Since his retirement and residence in Saugerties, Dr. Arnold became a member and councilman of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, and heads its church renovation finance campaign for a $30,000 remodeling fund for the historic church.

In January 1954, he was elected executive vice president of Iron Mountain Atomic Storage Corp., Hudson, and in October 1954, he was elected secretary of the Aramaic Bible Society founded in 1942. He is a member of the board of directors of the New York State Council of Churches.

Appropriateness of the naming of the building is emphasized by the fact that the library wing of the building was completed during Dr. Arnold's administration, and the chapel wing was under construction when he retired in 1953.

Dr. Arnold was called to the presidency of Hartwick College in September 1939 from Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, where he was head of the Division of Special Schools and professor of psychology for 14 years.

His administration at Hartwick has been marked by significant advancements. The faculty was strengthened and the endowment of the college had been increased by approximately $200,000.

Marion Newkirk Named to Fill Town Clerk Post

Miss Marion Newkirk, secretary and bookkeeper at the town office, and a town employe for 14 years, was appointed Saugerties town clerk at a special meeting of the town board Saturday night.

Miss Newkirk will fill the unexpired term of William Ferman who died in December. Voters will elect a new town clerk for the two year term in November.

An employe of the Town of Saugerties welfare office on Russell Street since 1943, Miss Newkirk became secretary and bookkeeper at the town office when Supervisor Peter M. Williams was first office in 1950.

A resident of Saugerties-Woodstock Road, she serves as organist of Centerville Methodist Church and secretary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the church. Active in youth work in the community, she is a leader of the Friendly Blue Birds and has been affiliated with the Camp Fire organization since 1945.

Miss Newkirk graduated from Saugerties High School and attended the former Spencer Business School in Kingston before it became Moran-Spencerian School of Business.

Home Unit Elects Mrs. Laura Burch

Mrs. Laura Burch of Mt. Marion Park was elected president of Mt. Marion Unit of the Home Demonstration Service at the regular meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. Genevieve Stafford, Old Kings Highway, Mt. Marion.

She will replace Mrs. Elaine Leighton who served for the past year. All new officers will assume office in the fall.

Others named were:

Mrs. Helen Phillips, vice president; Mrs. Nancy Cascone, secretary, and Mrs. Lucille Borges, treasurer.

Mrs. Emaline Miller was named interim secretary until the fall replacing Mrs. June Dittus who moved from the Mt. Marion community.

Arrangements for a bake sale to be held at J. J. Newberry Co., store, Main Street, Saugerties on February 20 from 6 to 8:30 p. m. was outlined at the meeting.

The theme of the program was "Know Your Foreign Neighbors," by Mrs. Rolande Bollin who spoke about France and her experiences when she was living in that country.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Roderer.

Special Game Club Meeting Tuesday On Post-Deer Kill

Saugerties Fish and Game Club has called a special meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Saugerties Sales and Service offices, Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, to poll its members on the much discussed limited post-season deer statute.

The Freeman learned today that the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County will vote on the matter at its regular meeting scheduled Thursday at Lake Katrine Rod & Gun Club, Neighborhood Road.

In order to take a definite stand on the subject the federation must know the feelings of its member clubs.

Action of the Saugerties meeting was motivated by the State Conservation Department meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, on Saturday. At that time the proposal to have a special limited post-season deer period was discussed.

The special season would be held in areas requiring protection from deer herds browsing in apple orchards.

YMCA News

Over 200 persons attended the second family swim program at the YMCA Friday night.

Program was under the leadership of Mrs. Eve Oskay, secretary treasurer of the Parents Club and Frank Rebello, youth secretary. Assisting on the committee were Mrs. Margaret Lewis, Mrs. Anita Loche and Mrs. Elma Lewis. Refreshments were served following the swim.

Mrs. Oskey and her committee are planning another family program to be held in the spring.

Name New Hall At Area College After Local Man

DR. HENRY J. ARNOLD

Trustees of Hartwick College, Oneonta, this weekend voted to name the new religious and arts building Arnold Hall, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Arnold of Saugerties, former president and first lady of the college.

The announcement by President Miller A. F. Richie said that Dr. Arnold had served the college as president for 14 years prior to his retirement in 1953. Dr. Richie immediately wired news of the trustees' action to Dr. Arnold at Daytona Beach, Fla., where he is convalescing from a recent illness.

Dr. and Mrs. Arnnold were vacationing in Florida when he was stricken early in January and rushed to Daytona Beach Hospital.

Since his retirement and residence in Saugerties, Dr. Arnold became a member and councilman of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, and heads its church renovation finance campaign for a $30,000 remodeling fund for the historic church.

In January 1954, he was elected executive vice president of Iron Mountain Atomic Storage Corp., Hudson, and in Octoberr 1954, he was elected secretary of the Aramaic Bible Society founded in 1942. He is a member of the board of directors of the New York State Council of Churches.

Appropriateness of the naming of the building is emphasized by the fact that the library wing of the building was completed during Dr. Arnold's administration, and the chapel wing was under construction when he retired in 1953.

Dr. Arnold was called to the presidency of Hartwick College in September 1939 from Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, where he was head of the Division of Special Schools and professor of psychology for 14 years.

His administration at Hartwick has been marked by significant advancements. The faculty was strengthened and the endowment of the college had been increased by approximately $200,000.

Special Game Club Meeting Tuesday On Post-Deer Kill

Saugerties Fish and Game Club has called a special meeting to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Saugerties Sales and Service offices, Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, to poll its members on the much discussed limited post-season deer statute.

The Freeman learned today that the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County will vote on the matter at its regular meeting scheduled Thursday at Lake Katrine Rod & Gun Club, Neighborhood Road.

In order to take a definite stand on the subject the federation must know the feelings of its member clubs.

Action of the Saugerties meeting was motivated by the State Conservation Department meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, on Saturday. At that time the proposal to have a special limited post-season deer period was discussed.

The special season would be held in areas requiring protection from deer herds browsing in apple orchards.

Marion Newkirk Named to Fill Town Clerk Post

Miss Marion Newkirk, secretary and bookkeeper at the town office, and a town employe for 14 years, was appointed Saugerties town clerk at a special meeting of the town board Saturday night.

Miss Newkirk will fill the unexpired term of William Ferman who died in December. Voters will elect a new town clerk for the two year term in November.

An employe of the Town of Saugerties welfare office on Russell Street since 1943, Miss Newkirk became secretary and bookkeeper at the town office when Supervisor Peter M. Williams was first office in 1950.

A resident of Saugerties-Woodstock Road, she serves as organist of Centerville Methodist Church and secretary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the church. Active in youth work in the community, she is a leader of the Friendly Blue Birds and has been affiliated with the Camp Fire organization since 1945.

Miss Newkirk graduated from Saugerties High School and attended the former Spencer Business School in Kingston before it became Moran-Spencerian School of Business.

Home Unit Elects Mrs. Laura Burch

Mrs. Laura Burch of Mt. Marion Park was elected president of Mt. Marion Unit of the Home Demonstration Service at the regular meeting held last week at the home of Mrs. Genevieve Stafford, Old Kings Highway, Mt. Marion.

She will replace Mrs. Elaine Leighton who served for the past year. All new officers will assume office in the fall.

Others named were:

Mrs. Helen Phillips, vice president; Mrs. Nancy Cascone, secretary, and Mrs. Lucille Borges, treasurer.

Mrs. Emaline Miller was named interim secretary until the fall replacing Mrs. June Dittus who moved from the Mt. Marion community.

Arrangements for a bake sale to be held at J. J. Newberry Co., store, Main Street, Saugerties on February 20 from 6 to 8:30 p. m. was outlined at the meeting.

The theme of the program was "Know Your Foreign Neighbors," by Mrs. Rolande Bollin who spoke about France and her experiences when she was living in that country.

Pictures, Paris newspapers and French currency were displayed and a discussion period held.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Roderer.

Hostile Greeting

Most of Nation Gets Ice, Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The major part of the nation slipped and sloshed in ice, snow and rain today as winter's rough elements poured out a mixture of foul weather.

A cold wave stung the Northeast and Northern Midwest.

Considerable fog blanketed many sections in the Midwest and across wide areas in the Gulf Coast region and South Atlantic states.

Driving Hazardous

Ice glaze warnings were issued by the Weather Bureau to motorists and stockmen in the central plans area. Driving was extremely hazardous in many areas.

Arctic air gripped the North dropped far blow zero in most areas from northern New York into New England.

The freezing rain or drizzle covered most of Iowa and southern Minnesota into northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. It glazed streets and highways in eastern Kansas and parts of Indiana and Ohio.

Heavy snow hit some western states, with falls from northern Arizona and Utah into Wyoming and Idaho. Scattered falls were reported eastward across parts of South Dakota and Nebraska into the northern Great Lakes. Snow fell as far south as Page, Ariz.

Order Gives Bequest To Upstate Minister

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A judge has signed an order clearing the way to the first payments of an inheritance to a Snyder, N. Y., minister who changed his name to comply with the provisions of a will.

The Methodist minister, formerly the Rev. Glen Alty, was bequeathed most of the $75,000 estate of the late Norris P. Crafts who died in 1958.

But the will stipulated that the Rev. Mr. Alty change his name to Crafts and that he have a son. Norris Crafts was childless.

The Rev. Mr. Alty, who has a daughter and four sons, went to court and had his name changed to Crafts.

Douglas County Judge Robert Troyer said he signed the order Friday providing for first payments from the inheritance to the Rev. Glen Alty Crafts.
